MOST OF MANKIND SEEKS BETTER WORLD BY PEACEFUL MEANS, ROOSEVELT SAYS

43 Families To Be Helped by Opportunity Fund

$4,800 Gift
Boosts Total
To $14,634

Greatest Number of Worthy in History of Drive Aided.

By FRANK DRAKE.

Another large gift to Atlanta's Opportunity families—one for $4,800—yesterday sent the Ten Opportunity fund soaring to a total of $14,634 to assure the brightest of Christmas mornings to 43 neediest families, the greatest number ever promised help for a year in Atlanta!

It's a happy Christmas for the persons you have helped, Atlantans, and it's a happy Christmas for you—because you have given so generously.

Atlantans have dug down to help the people who need a little help to dig out. And from the debris of shattered families will emerge independent, self-respecting men and women, educated boys and girls, healthy sons and daughters, because of YOU!

Life For Many.

Your dimes and dollars and thousands of dollars have brought joy to the hearts of worthwhile people who were forlorn and desperate. Your money has brought LIFE itself to many of them. What greater Christmas present could kind Atlantans have given people less fortunate than themselves? It is a magnificent gift and the members of the Opportunity families today are full of appreciation. So is The Constitution, which presents the Opportunity families each Christmas, and so is the Family Welfare Society and all its staff, which co-operates with this newspaper in helping Atlanta's neediest, most-deserving families every year.

We, the Opportunity families, the Family Welfare Society and The Constitution, wish for every contributor to the Ten Opportunity Fund the merriest of Christmases and the happiest of New Years.

Donor Anonymous.

The donor of the $4,800 (largest single gift to the Opportunity families), wishes to remain anonymous, and, though we would like to tell you all about it, we respect every request of this nature.

The big donation will "adopt" 14 Opportunity families whose stories have not been told in the paper. These 14 are in addition to all the families which have been presented and in addition to several families "adopted" anonymously.

To the donor of the big $4,800, as well as to the givers of dimes and dollars, The Constitution extends sincere thanks. Not for itself alone, but for the families who have been helped when help was needed most and when help would do the most good in rehabilitating them.

A stitch in time saves nine, the

Blackout Brings 'Silent Night' to Bethlehem; Gods of War Flout Prince of Peace Birthday

By EVERETT R. HOLLES

United States Cables Editor.

"Silent night . . .

In a strange hush unbroken by a single crashing bomb, London's people crowded into underground shelters Christmas Eve singing war songs instead of carols, fearful that Adolf Hitler might choose the birthday of the Prince of Peace to launch his long-delayed invasion of Britain.

"Holy night . . .

Germany's war leaders, threatening invasion soon, told their warriors and people that Hitler is "God's gift" to them and that, with the Almighty on Germany's side, Britain is doomed to defeat. ### Antidefeatism Attitude Urged Upon Country

'We Still Believe in Golden Rule,' F. D. R.
Tells Nation.

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—President Roosevelt sent forth a "Happy Christmas" greeting to the nation tonight in an address warning against cynicism and defeatism and praying for a "peaceful chance" for humanity to strive for world betterment.

Lighting a 30-foot cedar Christmas tree at dusk near the White House, he observed sadly that except for little children, Christmas, 1940, could not be "merry."

"But for most of us it can be a happy Christmas," he continued, "if by happiness we mean that we have done with doubts, that we have set our hearts against fear, that we still believe in the golden rule of all mankind, that we intend to live more purely in the spirit of Christ, and that by our works, as well as our words, we will strive forward in faith and in hope and in love."

Thoughts on World.

The thought of conditions in other lands where the Christmas spirit burns less brightly obviously hung heavily on the President's heart. This was apparent in his address to the throng of some 8,000 and to those who listened to the nationwide broadcast, and in some extemporaneous remarks preceding his speech.

In these Mr. Roosevelt proposed to have the tree and the spectators inside the White House grounds next year and to deliver his address from the White House porch, "if we are all here." The qualification recalled his remark upon leaving Warm Springs recently, when he expressed a hope to return in March "if the world survives."

The ceremony this year took place, as usual, in a park known as the Ellipse between the White House and the Washington monument, where a living cedar had been decked with ornaments and lights which sprang to vari-colored life when the President pressed a button.

Hits Defeatist.

Declaring it "unintelligent" to be defeatist, Mr. Roosevelt said: "Crisis may beget crisis, but the progress underneath does not wholly halt—it does go forward."

He saw "a definite betterment" for the human race compared with the days when Charles Dickens wrote the "Christmas Carol," which Mr. Roosevelt reads to his family every Christmas Eve, but he said there still was "much—oh, so much—to do."

"Most of all we ask a chance to do it—yes, a peaceful chance to do it," he continued.

"We want to do it the voluntary way—and most human beings in all the world want to do it the voluntary way. We do not want to have the way imposed on the world by the conquest of the world by the sword."

"No Isolation."

He intimated there was no isolation for anyone from war, remarking:

"Mankind is all one—and what happens in distant lands tomorrow will leave its mark on the happiness of our Christmases to come."

The President drove to the ceremony with his wife and mother; his sister-in-law, Mrs. J. R. Roosevelt; Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr.; Harry L. Hopkins, former commerce secretary, and the latter's eight-year-old daughter, Diana.

Yule Trade Best in More Than Decade

Last-Minute Surge of Buying Sends Totals Soaring.

By The Associated Press. Christmas shoppers throughout the nation rung down the curtain on Yuletide buying in the first year of the "fateful forties" last night in a surge of spending unequalled in a decade or longer. From across the nation came reports that were almost monotonous in their uniformity: "Best in my memory"; "the biggest since 1929"; "never saw anything like it."

They were issued by some of the country's largest merchants; by heads of chambers of commerce and trade associations and by individual corporations engaged in the manufacture of Christmas goods.

Economic analysts and psychologists alike took a hand in telling why.

Reasons Given.

Economists attributed it to the tremendous sweep and magnitude of the government's armament program that is making itself felt in almost every phase of American life.

But psychological interpretations said it was the war that rages over much of the earth's surface and affects a majority of the people of the world that was responsible for this extraordinary outpouring of buying and giving.

The full counters of goods and foods in plenty as contrasted with the strict rationing of everything but powder and guns in the warring countries; the realization that much might happen before another occasion of this sort presents itself; the thousands of mothers who for the first time experienced the sensation of sending their sons to an army training camp—all these and many more factors went to make up the mental background against which a nation gave expression to itself this Christmas, experts said.

Unusual Happened.

And there was a multitude of proofs that something unusual really had taken place. Christmas card sellers said never before had they experienced such a rush; people who had not heard from friends or acquaintances in years were pleasantly surprised to get the little greeting; postmen throughout the country struggled with the biggest loads of yuletide mail in years; railroads and other forms of transportation had the biggest volume of holiday traffic since the 20's, and in individual instances passenger travel set records.

Dun & Bradstreet, nation-wide mercantile agency, said:

"Reports indicate shoppers finished up Christmas buying in a spurge of activity which in many cities is above even the most optimistic expectations of merchants. 'Holiday trade volume is reported to have exceeded all years since 1929 in dollar volume and to have set a new record high in unit sales.'"

Cities Report Gains.

Individual reports from leading centers follow:

ATLANTA: Christmas trade was estimated by the Atlanta Credit Bureau at upwards of $35,000,000, setting all-time high. Richard Rich, vice president of a leading department store, said: "Last year we went over 1929 mark and this year's trade is considerably over that of a year ago. The demand is strong on the last day."

ST. LOUIS: Department stores' sales likely to show gains up to 10 per cent over last year, with indications volume may prove greatest since 1930.

CHICAGO: David Mayer Jr., president of State Street Council, said this year's Christmas business best since 1929 and will represent an average gain of 10 per cent.

ARMY CHRISTMAS, U. S. A.—This is the way Christmas still is celebrated at a U. S. Army post. Children of enlisted men at Fort Jay, Governor's Island, N. Y., decided to find out just what was behind all those white whiskers Santa Claus wore. At a pre-Christmas party where toys were distributed to the youngsters, they found behind all the make-up one of the members of the fort's personnel, Jess Mygal, of Chicago.

cent over last year. There was a definite improvement in demand for better class merchandise.

Cincinnati: Lynn Revenaugh, head of Retail Merchants' Association, said holiday buying would equal or exceed 1937, which was the best since 1929. "Merchants were caught flatfooted Monday," he added, "when an expected drizzle of buying turned out to be a cloudburst."

Best in History.

New Orleans: Association of Commerce officials said Christmas business "way up" over last year with some stores reporting the best since 1929. One wholesaler reported largest business in history with national defense spending figured in.

Philadelphia: Chamber of Commerce officials "conservatively" estimated Christmas sales 7 to 8 per cent above a year ago and "best since 1929." Strawbridge & Clothier said "Very much better than last year. Buying was heavy over the weekend and Monday sales exceeded expectations."

Miami: Burdine's, largest department store, reported sales 10 per cent above a year ago and second best in its 32-year history. Miami Credit Bureau reported the largest volume of business in its nine-year existence.

Columbus: Department stores estimated sales 8 to 10 per cent better than in 1939 and equal to "boom" years of 1928-29.

Biggest Ever Had.

Baltimore: Albert Hutzler, president of Hutzler Brothers said: "This is the biggest Christmas we have ever had." Association of Commerce estimated business 10 per cent better than last year.

Washington: Government figures not yet complete but officials expecting records to be broken. A spokesman for one leading department store said: "All records broken, both in number of customers and amount of business."

Boston: Merchants and Retail Board officials both said "business better than last year."

Kansas City: W. G. Austin, secretary Merchants Association, said Christmas shopping would exceed last year's by at least two per cent.

Cleveland: William H. Gray, secretary Retail Credit Men's Company, said dollar volume of Christmas business about 10 per

Macon, Albany To Get Army Air Schools

1,000 and 1,500-Acre Tracts Acquired for Large Program.

By The Associated Press. Establishment of Army Air Corps training schools near Macon and Albany, Ga., apparently was assured today with the signing of $1-a-year leases for the necessary land.

Calder B. Clay, chairman of a Macon Chamber of Commerce committee, said papers signed by the city and the federal government provided for a 275-acre air school on a 1,000-acre tract south of Macon. Two adjoining tracts also will be turned over to the Army for auxiliary fields.

The land, to be bought by the city and Bibb county, has been assessed at $52,000, Clay said. Start of construction, he added, has been set tentatively for February 10.

The advanced flying school of Albany, expected to have a personnel of 2,000 students, officers and enlisted men, will be located on a 1,500-acre tract in east Dougherty county, about 3 1/2 miles from the city. C. Q. Wright, city manager, said the lease was for 99 years at $1 a year.

Both pursuit ships and bombers will be used in the training program.

cent above a year ago, aided by exceptionally big Monday.

Best on Record.

Pittsburgh: Kaufmann's Department store reported Christmas business best on record.

Detroit: Leading department store executive said the Christmas turnover was the largest in volume ever experienced, but dollar total would not equal the 1928-29 peak. Others said business was "very satisfactory," running roughly 10 per cent ahead of last year.

New York: R. H. Macy & Company said: "Our information inicates that department store sales throughout the country are running five per cent ahead of last year. The volume at Macy's is satisfactory."

San Francisco: N. L. Bergault, sales manager Roos Brothers department store, said: "We're almost too busy to eat. This is our biggest Christmas ever in dollar volume."

Seattle: Dun's said merchants reported sales running 10 to 20 per cent ahead of 1939. One Seattle department store said Monday's sales "best single day's business in our history."

Los Angeles: Julian Sieroty, general manager Eastern-Columbia department store, said: "This is the best Christmas in 10 years. Volume is approximately 10 per cent greater than last year."

Denver: George A. Flannigan, manager Retail Merchants' Association, said: "Retail business will run 5 to 7 per cent ahead of last year. It will be the largest since 1937 and possibly longer."

Hartford, Conn.: Merchants estimate business 20 per cent above a year ago. Many plants engaged in defense work distributed bonuses to workers.

Oklahoma City: Last-minute shoppers sent Christmas trade totals 15 per cent over last year, merchants said.

Viereck Is Forced To Quit Press Club

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—(P)—George Sylvester Viereck, author, has resigned from the Overseas Press Club of America—at the request, said the organization's secretary, of the members.

Viereck, in disclosing his resignation, said the demand was merely another phase of the same mass hysteria which blinds men's eyes at a lynching bee and makes them do things for which they are ashamed after it is all over.

Burnet Hershey, executive secretary of the club—a group of men who have served as foreign correspondents—said "all kinds of Gestapos and Bundists used to attend our meetings with him. Finally the members simply demanded that he resign."

Truck Driver Escapes Unhurt at 'Hell's Gate'

PORTLAND, Me., Dec. 24.—(P)—A heavy truck collided with a Maine Central railroad train today, the wreckage knocking over a sign saying: "Hell's gate. Drive carefully. Death is so permanent."

The driver, Anthony Peterson, 17, escaped unhurt.

Fund Honoring Paul Donehoo Is Begun Here

First Contribution To Aid Blind Made by Edgar Craighead.

A memorial fund honoring the late Paul Donehoo, blind coroner of Fulton county, and intended to aid sightless folk, was launched yesterday by Edgar Craighead, president of the Fifth District Chapter of the Georgia Association of Workers for the Blind.

Mrs. W. O. Alston, 1180 Belair drive, treasurer of the association, was named to receive contributions.

"No one in Atlanta and Georgia had more friends than Paul Donehoo and none did a more constructive work for the blind," Craighead pointed out. "We know that Paul's friends would like to continue his efforts and commendate him in this humanitarian way."

Craighead made the first contribution. The fund, among other purposes, will be used to foster a more normal attitude toward the blind. In this connection Professor James Childs, instructor of the city school system's blind department at Faith school, declared: "Paul Donehoo recognized how necessary it was to create a popular feeling that blind people need help, not so much as a handout, but toward rehabilitation. He had the right point of view—that a blind person is one seriously handicapped, but only that."

"One of the greatest difficulties of blind people arises from others' lack of proper understanding of their point of view. They are not essentially different from other folk. When they are good musicians, or good chess players, it should be no cause for marveling. It just shows that despite a handicap they are able to exercise remaining faculties in a normal way."

Ed C. Liddell And Waitress Are Pardoned

Atlantan Convicted in Wife Slaying, Woman in 'Straw Death.'

Christmas Eve pardons, conditioned on good behavior, were bestowed by Governor Rivers yesterday on two principals in sensational murder trials of the last two years, Ed C. Liddell, Atlanta bond salesman convicted in the slaying of his wife, and Verna Mae Fowler, former Waycross roadside waitress, who was sentenced to life imprisonment in the "drawn out" slaying of 12-year-old J. C. Nelson.

The Liddell and Fowler pardons were included among approximately 200 granted by the Governor recently. Also pardoned yesterday were eight persons convicted of lottery charges in Fulton county.

Liddell was given from five to 10 years in November, 1939. His pardon was recommended by L. W. (Chip) Robert Jr., former secretary of the Democratic national committee; the Rev. Henry Russell, pastor of Rock Spring Presbyterian church and brother of Senator Richard B. Russell Jr.; Baxter Maddox, W. A. Parker, Dr. Frank B. Boland, R. J. Thiesen, Clyde King and Dr. Joe L. Matthews, of Dallas, Ga., who said that the prisoner suffered from coronary thrombosis and had only a short time to live.

Fowler Case History.

The Fowler woman was given a life sentence in Ware county in July, 1938. The 12-year-old victim's father, Harvey Nelson, was electrocuted last December for his part in the crime, which the state contended was committed for $462 of insurance on the boy's life.

Nelson operated a roadside near Waycross where Verna Mae Fowler was employed. On the witness stand, Nelson stated the Fowler girl and another waitress drew straws to see who would kill the boy and that the former drew the electric chair that his son shot himself accidentally while playing with a pistol.

Judge Asks Pardon.

The pardon was recommended by Judge M. D. Dickerson of the Waycross circuit, who wrote that in his opinion the woman had served sufficient time for her offense, "which in my opinion was only withholding facts" which would have enabled the officers in Ware county to have reached an earlier solution to the case."

Pardons for Fulton county lottery law violators were issued Lida Jones, Charlie Murphy, Annie L. Mooney, Mark Williamson, Sylvester Williams, James Arnold, Corine Kelsey and Jerry Paschal.

Testimony at the inquest was presented to show that Liddell, who had been drinking, killed his wife in their northside home. Well known in the city's business and social life, he was an officer of the Georgia Tech Alumni Association. Mrs. Liddell was a member of a prominent Augusta family.

G. O. P. Must Attract Votes In Low Income Group To Win

58 Per Cent of Americans Either on Relief or Would Have To Join Breadline Within Six Months If They Found No Work.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

PRINCETON, N. J., Dec. 24.—One of the chief problems the Republican party faces in the next few years is how to attract more voters in the lower income levels—how to convince the folks on the other side of the railroad tracks that the Republicans would look after their welfare as diligently as the Democrats.

The number of Americans who feel insecure in an economic sense is far larger than most persons in political circles suppose. A study just completed by the Institute indicates that an actual majority of voters are either on relief or would have to join the breadlines within six months if they lost their jobs and could find no other work.

It is among this group, constituting more than half (58 per cent) of the population, that the Republicans have failed to make headway. The great majority of these people believe that the Democratic party is their party, the only party with their interests at heart.

The problem for the Republicans is clearly pictured in the results of interviews made by the Institute's staff among all classes of people from coast to coast.

During the course of the interviewing each voter was asked two questions. The first was: "If you lost your present job or business and couldn't find other work, how long do you think you could hold out before you would have to apply for relief?" The other question was how each person voted in the November presidential election. Here is the way the first question was answered by the voters, excluding farmers whose replies are shown elsewhere in this article:

Persons Already on Relief	14%
Could Hold Out One Month or Less	25
Two to Six Months	19
Six Months to Three Years	13
Three Years and Over	29

The last two groups, who apparently feel relatively secure, total 42 per cent. The others constitute a majority, 58 per cent—people close enough to the breadline to feel the constant nudge of insecurity. When these groups are asked how they voted in the November election, a major problem facing the Republicans becomes obvious.

Persons on Relief	80%
Could Hold Out One Month or Less	60
Two to Six Months	58
Six Months to Three Years	49
Three Years and Over	39

Asked how long they could maintain themselves on their savings and other resources if they lost their farms or farm jobs, a cross-section of farmers voted as follows:

One Month or Less	32%
Two to Six Months	22
Six Months to Three Years	17
Three Years and Over	29

Five Youths Join U. S. Navy Here

Five Atlanta youths enlisted yesterday in the United States Navy at its recruiting station in the new post office, and have been transferred to the training station at Norfolk, Va., before assignment to ships of the fleet.

The men are Earl H. Pennell, of 1539 West View drive; Harry T. Stone, of 653 Gresham street; Milton R. Story, of 16 Francis place, and Thad Pickett Burruss Jr., of Cumming.

France To Issue Stamp Bearing Petain Picture

VICHY, Dec. 24.—(P)—A postage stamp bearing the picture of Marshal Petain, chief of state, will be issued January 1, officials announced today. It will be a one-franc stamp used for ordinary letters inside France. Three other denominations of Petain stamps will be issued later. Coins already have been authorized bearing the marshal's likeness instead of the traditional figure of La France.

Five 'Du Quoin Boys' Are Granted Pardons

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 24.—(P)—Governor John Stille granted Christmas Eve pardons to the five "Du Quoin boys" today. The pardons cancelled life terms for four of the youths and a 40-year sentence of the fifth, meted to them in 1933 after the slaying of La Verne Miller, a 14-year-old miner's daughter, during inter-union mine strife in the Illinois coal fields.

The Governor's pardons will permit the five to spend Christmas Day at their homes. The Du Quoin boys, whose freedom has been sought in an intensive campaign by leaders of Illinois' two mine unions, are Otis Battaglia, 26; Sam Ferno, 29; Robert Shingleton, 27; Barnes Bosetto, 36, and Emory Albers, 32. Albers received the 40-year sentence.

'Keep Driver Sober,' State Patrol Warns

Drunken Driving Said Cause of Many Yule Accidents.

"Keep the driver sober" is first on the list of safe-driving rules for the Christmas holidays issued yesterday by the State Highway Patrol.

Appealing for a less hazardous Christmas, Lieutenant J. L. Bussey pointed out that drunken driving collisions reached a peak each year during the Christmas and New Year holidays. Last year during the holidays 45 persons were killed in Georgia, many of the deaths being due to drunken driving.

On Christmas Day alone last year five people were killed and 128 injured in Georgia automobile accidents.

"The merriest Christmas is a safe Christmas," the lieutenant said. None of the state troopers is taking leave of absence during the holidays, but will be on the road in the interest of safety.

Yes, Virginia, There Is A Santa Claus

ONE SEPTEMBER DAY in 1897 a strange letter reached the editor of The New York Sun. It was from a little girl. He handed it to one of his editorial writers, Francis P. Church, with the wry remark: "Take care of this reader's problem."

Church lighted his pipe, settled back and read what the child had written:

Dear Editor:

I am 8 years old.

Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus.

Papa says, "If you see it in The Sun it's so."

Please tell me the truth. Is there a Santa Claus?

Virginia O'Hanlon,
111 West 95th Street

After a few minutes of thoughtful smoking, Church swiveled around to his typewriter and pounded out an answer which has become a classic. The New York Sun tells us they have filled requests for more than a quarter million copies of Virginia's letter and Church's answer.

In these troublous days, it seems to us, there is a live, vital message for all of us to take to heart in the newspaperman's answer.

The Newspaperman's Answer to the Little Girl, Written 43 Years Ago:

VIRGINIA, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge. ¶ Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no child-like faith, then, no poetry, no romance, to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished. ¶ Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus; but, even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world. ¶ You tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding. ¶ No Santa Claus! Thank God! he lives and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

Paul Rockwell Returns After Fighting in War

Former Constitution Reporter Was in Service of French Army.

Captain Paul Ayres Rockwell, a distinguished-looking man with a bristling mustache, is one of the few people who have made a lifetime avocation of being a soldier—specifically a soldier for France.

A South Carolina-born journalist by profession, Rockwell was one of the first Americans to enlist with the French forces at the beginning of the World War.

With the outbreak of the Riff War in 1925, he re-enlisted, this time in the French foreign legion, and served in Africa.

Now he has just returned to this country from service as an officer on the French general staff in the present war. He was in charge of allocating American volunteers, and was just getting the United States' unofficial participation in the imbrolio organized when the combination of weaknesses he had watched gathering during his years of residence in France brought about the nation's collapse.

Rockwell fled to Bordeaux a day or so behind his colleagues in the war ministry, dodged the imminent danger of death or capture for weeks on end, and spent subsequent months in the complicated process of getting formally discharged from the French Army and assembling the passports, visas and cash necessary to get home.

Dixie Version.

The captain, at 51, is like a Dixie version of C. Aubrey Smith, the cinema prototype of the stiff-spined but warm-hearted British gentleman, with thinning hair, an authoritative nose and a scholarly manner.

Like most individuals who undertake unorthodox activities, Rockwell can't quite put his finger on the reason that motivated him.

"I've always been interested in military affairs," he told Gladwin Hill, Associated Press writer, in an interview in New York shortly after his return to the United States, "and there have been soldiers in my family, in every war, as far back as I can trace." He has traced the Rockwell family in America back to 1600.

As a boy Rockwell lived in Asheville, N. C., and was graduated from Wake Forest College and Washington and Lee Law school. In 1914 he gave up his reporter's job on The Atlanta Constitution, said goodbye to his mother and with his brother Kiffin went to France and enlisted.

Kiffin was one of the original members of the Lafayette Escadrille, and was the second member killed in combat.

Rockwell entered the infantry, was wounded in the early fighting in eastern France, and was transferred to the general headquarters staff. There he became information officer, correspondent for the Chicago Daily News.

He married a French girl and after the war settled down to live in France.

But when the Riff trouble started in 1925, he got the itch to be in the fray again.

Aviation Regiment.

He became captain of an aviation regiment—"although I couldn't pilot a plane—can't even drive an automobile to this day"—and flew constantly as an observer under exceptionally hazardous conditions.

"The natives we were fighting were hidden away in the hills, and we had to fly at an altitude of about 60 yards to draw their fire and ferret them out. They were very good shots. The plane losses were far greater, proportionally, than in the World War or the present war."

Rockwell, divorced and remarried to the former Prue Durant Smith, of New York, lived in France until a few years ago when he came back to Asheville, N. C., so his three children could go to American schools.

When the present war broke out, he had the same old impulse to join up with the French again, but it took him several months to arrange to get abroad. Finally, last February, he got to Paris and enlisted for a third time.

"There was an amazing difference in the country from World War days," he said. "France had not yet been invaded as she was in 1914. The French soldiers had been mobilized and demobilized so often, they finally figured they might as well fight it out and get it over with. There was no singing as they marched off to the front."

"The Germans were very clever at lulling the French into a false sense of security. The French thought it was a waiting game. Officers brought their families up to live in the villages just behind the front lines—that's why there were so many old men and old women and children caught up there in the evacuation when the attack finally came."

The collapse of France was so rapid, Rockwell says, that it surprised even the German officers who had been counting on a quick conquest. "They said their advance was so fast that they didn't have time to sleep or eat."

Rockwell blames the French collapse on general debilitation of the French government.

"There wasn't a spark of confidence in the government and there hadn't been for years. The best men in France had turned their backs on politics, and left them in the hands of adventurers."

Most of the politicians had their mistresses, and many of them were agents of foreign powers.

"I believe Premier Daladier was honest and patriotic—but there wasn't much he could do."

Leon Blum had wrecked the French economic structure with his experimentalizing the airplane and munitions plants, and all that.

... There was a Communist cell in every factory, running the place. The French were putting out 30 planes a month—against Germany's 1,000 a month.

"In May and June, the Germans outnumbered the French and British in soldiers 3 to 1; in planes, 10 to 1; and in tanks 20 to 1."

"The French had less than 600 first-line planes, to Germany's 6,000. They only had 90 bomber-ment planes, and only about 30 of these were up to date."

On June 10 Rockwell went on a business trip to St. Malo on the north coast of France. There he learned that the war ministry had left Paris. He couldn't find out where it was, but finally got orders to go to Bordeaux. He made it in three days by car over back roads.

"There were between a million and two million refugees in Bordeaux. There was no place to stay. Wealthy people were sleeping in the streets."

He finally found the home of an old friend from the World War. Rockwell's stay there ran a close race with that Riff war flying for his most dangerous experience since the World War battlefields.

The house was just a stone's throw from an important military airport, a couple of big munitions dumps and some troop headquarters that the German bombers only too obviously knew about—the nearest air raid shelter more than a mile away.

"I'd lie there in bed and every time a bomb came down—they landed a block away—I'd think 'you're finished this time...'

but we got through it all right."

When the Germans approached the city, he went 100 miles to Montparier and camped out in a ruined chateau for six weeks. With the collapse of France, he said, "Everybody was stunned, like they'd been hit in the head."

... They didn't know which way to turn. You couldn't make a plan of any kind, except from hour to hour."

Not until September 9 could he locate an officer who could give him a certificate of demobilization. The job of getting the necessary American, French, Spanish and Portuguese papers to get to an American boat took him until November 17, when he crossed the French border and went to Lisbon, where he boarded the American liner Siboney.

The Vichy government, Rockwell thinks, far from being pro-Nazi, is resisting German demands everywhere it can and is stalling for time.

"Petain is a great man, and he's respected in Germany."

"We shall see."

Meanwhile, Rockwell is going back to Asheville to settle down with his family and do some gentleman-farming—at least until another occasion arises when he can pitch in and work for France.

Look to the Man

Christ, the Babe of the Manger, was born this day almost 2,000 years ago. Born to peace, He seldom knew a peace other than that which He found in His own soul. Today, Christians generally conceive of Christ as wholly a man of peace, little realizing His was a life of strife.

Herod sought to extinguish that life when it was but a feeble spark. Herod was the manifestation of the temporal power of that day; that power which never ceased to fight Jesus—Jesus that power—until finally He walked between files of soldiers to His death. He had lashed with the brutal nationalism of the Pharisees and the entrenched interests of the addressees. His was the cause of the common man, of freedom, of justice and of fellowship. His was the cause which Franklin D. Roosevelt today describes as a creative, abundant life for all men. Jesus sought to rescue men from the slavery inherent in the power of the Hitler and the alleyway Duces and the Francos, who led the Moors in the name of Christianity. For that He fought as men fight and for that He died.

Our modern world must rescue Jesus from the stained glass windows. He was no meek creature of an intangible world, but a man of courage, stern when needs be, tender only when He summoned the little children, the lame and the halt, the blind and the dumb, the thief and the murderer. He was militant, outspoken and fearless. The parable of the Good Samaritan may yet guide us today. The priest and the Levite left a wounded man by the side of the road. There, to them, was no fellow man. They denied him the church, their church. A stranger, known but to God, crossed the road to give all his earthly possessions that a fellow man might live. If Jesus lived today the churches of the world would not live in bombproof shelters or in abject fear; they would not be muzzled, neither would they preach subjection to brute power, nor appeasement, nor complacency. Jesus Christ was a man, not a myth in stained glass!

Jesus—the Man Jesus—is lost today to half a world which has never truly known Him. And on this, His birthday, it behooves the Christians of the world to look again at the character of this Man, for He fought His life-time away to bring mankind peace. Mankind has not attained that peace because mankind has not followed in His footsteps. Mankind has enshrined Him in stained glass, content to worship, but not to sacrifice.

Across the narrowing waters men live in slavery. Across the narrowing waters a wounded nation grids to fight against oblivion. Here we sit, most of us today, content in the warmth of our homes and secure against the death Mars wields. We represent a peak of Christian civilization, but are we Christians? We must in all honesty admit that we are not, for fellow men live under the shadow of another Herod even as Christ lived in the shadow of the Herod of the Bible, and men die at the will of another Pilate even as Christ died on the cross at the command of the Pilate of the Bible.

Is the "church militant" but a phrase, a feeble, cringing phrase? Are the Christian soldiers of the well-known hymn soldiers only of fancy or of fantasy?

On this day others will voice many pleasant-sounding words. These are not. Think well upon them, for they plead in the name of Christ who fought as men fight and died as men die; a Christ who was not a meek and mild creature, worthy only of perpetuation in pigment and idle words, but a man not afraid to ask sacrifices of all men, knowing full well none could sacrifice more than He.

It is striking that His words come to us today through the medium of other men. He wasted not His words, but His actions bespeak the iron of His soul.

This cannot be an easy Christmas. It is a bountiful Christmas. But soon America must answer the wayfarer who lies by the side of the road. Seek the answer in the life of Jesus, not in the stained glass; in terms of sacrifice and not of worship. It will be a true answer, even as Jesus is truth.

We remember when the worst that could happen to an ocean liner was being stood on end to compare with the Empire State building.

As times goes on, we think this will be said of Champ Joe Louis: That he eliminated the old-fashioned waltz from heavyweight boxing.

A Real Christmas

Forty-three Atlanta families have found, today, the happiest Christmas they ever knew. In these little homes there is rejoicing, as you read this, that passeth the understanding of fortunate ones who have never known what it is to stand on the brink of tragedy.

These are the Opportunity Families. They are the ones who, because of the generosity of Atlanta, have been lifted from the dark abyss of despair and firmly planted under the golden sky of new hope.

Atlantans have given, this Christmas time, approximately $15,000 for the succor and rehabilitation of these men, women and children who, without this help, would go down into the tragedy of broken lives.

The gifts are not gifts for Christmas Day alone. That is the beauty of them. They are gifts that last throughout the year, and afterwards. They make not only the one day bright, but extend the sunshine through all the 365 days of the year to come and the result of them shall remain as long as the recipients and their children shall live. For they provide a new start in life for ones who otherwise could never begin the struggle anew and on the foundation of this giving shall arise many happy and brave homes, where good citizens contribute their share to the better citizenship of us all.

The recipients of the Opportunity Fund are, perforce, unable to voice their gratitude directly to the donors. Therefore, through these columns, The Constitution expresses deepest and most sincere thanks to all who have given and adds the assurance that the money contributed shall do exactly that for which it was given—salvage all these families in extremis and help them rebuild the family life that, until today, could see no pathway out of the despair into which ill fortune had cast them.

The committees on uses for the new leisure have thought of something for everyone except a woman while her nail polish is drying.

Lugosi, the film menace, thinks women are more fascinated by horror than men. And milliners grow rich because of it.

Labor at Hinesville

There can be little, if any, complaint about the labor situation and the unions at Hinesville, Ga., according to the report in Harold Martin's story of Monday morning. At the site of the six-million dollar training camp now in process of construction, the treatment of workers, both by union representatives and contractors, appears to be reasonably just.

The work is being done under closed shop conditions. However, when the unions were unable to supply the number of workers needed, it was made as easy as possible for men seeking work to take conditional membership in the unions. Ordinary laborers can go to work after a down payment, on union fee, of only one dollar and the total fee for this class of work is $9. Skilled workmen are charged a fee of $50, but only have to pay $5.50 down and a dollar a day thereafter. It is admitted that, in the emergency, many have gone to work who are incapable of qualifying to do work of union standards. This problem will have to be taken up after the Hinesville job is finished, if any of these incompetents seek permanent union membership.

Undoubtedly, in some parts of the country, the unions have abused their privileges. There have been "shake-downs" on some projects, which could not have occurred without the collaboration of union officials and contractors. It creates a situation which should be abhorrent to every decent American.

However, in Georgia it would appear that there can be but small ground for complaint. This, undoubtedly, is due to the fact that union officials in this state are an exceptionally fine group of citizens. Organized labor in Georgia has been gratifyingly free of the taint of racketeering officials which has blackened its reputation in some parts of the country. Where officials are men of the high character and high standing that is found in Georgia, labor, the contractors and the public are alike treated justly.

What ever became of Carol, of Rumania—but don't get up to look.

It will be interesting to learn how much more the Fuehrer will have to have to become a have.

While the world burns, a strange lethargy creeps over our defense effort. Instead of rising to the occasion, it seems we get up for a seventh-inning stretch.

From every quarter comes a swishing sound, which, however, will soon subside. The country is full of governors-elect, training with new brooms.

Opportunity and Aim

By DOROTHY THOMPSON.

What we, the people of the United States, have been attempting to do through the President and his administration is something quite unique in human history. We have been attempting to win a war without fighting it, and win it not for our own power but for a tolerable world order in which we and all other people can decently live.

In any other period of history this would have seemed quixotic. In this period its possibility hangs wholly on the desperation of Mr. Hitler. It is perhaps the only constructive thing to be done. If it could succeed, it would mean that we would play a decisive role in history without actual belligerency; it would mean that we were not tied to the national or imperialist aims of any power; it would mean that we could maintain a certain objectivity of view; it would mean that we have been at attempting to position to use our power for peace as much as for war.

The President has been one of the few democratic statesmen, perhaps the only one, of sufficient imagination and awareness to recognize from the outset the epochal and revolutionary nature of this struggle, and to see that through it a century was being liquidated and new outlines of another age emerging.

The President must know that the United States is not on the bid for a decisive role in the building of that coming age or pass out of history as a great power.

He knows that it would be very hard for us to do it alone. The tendency to amalgamation is too irresistible. The world is not becoming more isolated but more compact. Units are not becoming smaller but larger. Nationalism as we have known it is not on the ascendancy but on the decline.

Therefore we need allies. Not allies to win a war for a status quo; not allies to win a war for isolated and chauvinistic interests, but allies to win a contest for a new order of affairs on this planet, or on a sufficient area of it to be a strongly influential rallying point.

When the first German troops crossed the Polish border, the mountain of the order of the nineteenth century began sliding with the velocity of an avalanche.

The first shot fired heralded the end of an epoch. Briefly put, that was the epoch of capitalism, nationalism and democracy. The war and the revolutions that precipitated it put the skills under all three as we have known them.

The capitalism that measured the value of all things in terms of profit on money investment, already undermined by the massed refusal of millions in all countries to accept the business cycle as a law of God, was dealt a decisive blow.

The democracy that gave a man a vote instead of bread was challenged everywhere in the western world. The German revolution dealt a blow at nationalism. It is of no significance that the revolution was undertaken in the name of nationalism. When Hitler exalted race over nation, he laid an ax at the existing political structure of the world. German nationalism is racial and German internationalism is a struggle for racial domination.

Finally, the German revolution not only destroyed all the forms of political democracy but it attacked its essential content. That

A Visitor From Another World Speaks.

Well, well! So this is what you humans call Christmas Day. Quite interesting, I must say.

Personally, it doesn't seem different from any other day. That is, superficially. The sun rose according to schedule, just as it did yesterday and as it will tomorrow. The air is the same, the feel of things identical. The same sounds are in the air and there is the same hunger in our bellies. I notice you all go through the same motions of arising, bathing, dressing, etc., etc.

Not much difference at first glance.

But I will admit it is a different sort of day in many respects.

You know, for instance, generous. Almost all of you. And that's far different from your characteristics on most days. I'll say it! You give things to each other and, as I peep into your hearts, it's really remarkable how many of you never think of what you'll get in return.

Then, you seem to make the little children the prime individuals for the day. That is good. The nearer you get to children the nearer you get to understanding the fundamental truths of the universe.

Things of The Spirit.

But it is in the spirit that the day differs mostly from other days. To one who can scent the odor of your souls, the aroma is a pleasant surprise. Your hearts are softer and less calloused. You are, altogether, much nicer creatures.

It is the spirit of the day that makes the difference. What I don't understand is why, having tasted of the beauty of that finer spirit, you don't make it all the time. One would think, wouldn't one, that having had a sample day like this for so many years, you'd have sense enough to approve the sample and adopt it for all your days.

One thing I can't understand. You say this day is in celebration of the birth of a man you call the Prince of Peace. Well, if you have honored His birthday for so many years, why on earth don't you do content, as inherited from Greece and from the French Revolution, has made reason and realism measures of value and encouraged the free, inquiring, critical mind. And that content inherited from Judaeo-Christianity conceives of man as a moral being, and demands that he act according to sanctions imposed by conscience and intuitive experience.

These two, free thought and ethical sanction, have not only created democracy but have created science, humanism and law.

THE WRINGER

In such a social cataclysm all nations and all peoples are being put through the wringer, and every hope of restoring the status quo of 1929 has long since disappeared.

Those among us who still hoped that by some miracle of isolationism we should maintain unmodified a system here, destined to be radically changed throughout the rest of the earth, have been indulging in the most dangerous sort of wishful thinking.

They have been trying to keep out of the last war and maintain this continent as an isle of the blessed, a nineteenth century refuge from the twentieth—to stay in this world but not to be of it.

A lot of these were originally pro-Ally, because they saw in Britain and France the last stronghold of a social order with which they felt familiar and at home.

On the other hand, much of our youth has been anti-Ally, and if not pro-Nazi at least pro-revolutionary powers, because of an intellectual conviction that the latter were on the side of history.

Finally, a considerable and influential part of the population have been hoping to stop the course of events by an immediate negotiated peace—this, although there is not an offer in sight or a ray of hope that points to any "peace" that would not mean a complete Nazi revolutionary victory.

The issue will finally boil down to the question not of who "wins" but what New Order emerges?

The idea of restoring the lack of an order will certainly perish.

CHOICE OF TWO NEW ORDERS

Undoubtedly an order satisfactory to an English-speaking world ideologically dominated by America will be very different from one satisfactory to Hitler.

Ally, because they saw in Britain and France the last stronghold of a social order with which they felt familiar and at home.

14 Years Ago

Fourteen years ago this Christmas Day, the last poem published by Frank L. Stanton, beloved columnist and poet, appeared in The Constitution. It was:

NEW YEAR TEXT.
Taint no use to sit an sigh
For the things you've let slip by;
Whilst the light is in the sky,
Ketch the next ones on the fly.

Sighin' when the ship is tossed
Don't bring back the haven lost;
Best to keep your self-command,
Hope for land, hope for land!

Elizabeth M. Ford, lifelong admirer of the works of Mr. Stanton, has written the following verses in which she tries to express the viewpoint she believes Mr. Stanton would take toward the world of today, were he alive.

TO FRANK L. STANTON.
T'was, t'was fourteen years ago,
Ye writ a line for let us know
That something 'er let us know
It wasn't the things we'd let slip by,
The things for which we'd sit an' sigh;
'Twas hope an' land ahead.

Ye said ter keep our self-command,
Ye wanted us ter take our stand
While light shone in de sky.
T'was, that light is growing dark;
De waves beat high an' each huge bark
Is filled with fight and cry.

Tyrants walk our world with demands
Of hate an' greed in all the lands,
With darkened hope for all.
'The haven's not lost,' ye would say,
If ye could write a line ter day,
An' sound 'er warnin' call.

Ye'd tell us trouble's on de wane;
No use ter all de time complain
When something 'er let us know
An' that de clouds would all roll by,
Ter leave a clear an' brilliant sky,
With hope an' land ahead.

Ye'd say that every darkened night
Would find a mornin' full of light,
A little bit ahead.
An' that the wrongs of evil fien
Would find a tragic, bitter end,
If we would steer ahead.

And so we'll keep our self-command,
An' fer fer land, jest head fer land;
The place where right shall reign.
We'll leave the driftwood all behind,
An' try each day to bear in mind
That sunshine follows rain.

ELIZABETH M. FORD.

Christmas Eve

Again the heavenly choir with joy is singing
The song it sang above Bethlehem's plain.
The message of the Christ to men yet
To all who listen for the glad refrain.
The Star, as then, is radiantly gleaming
And angels who seek may find the holy Place.
Awake all ye sleeping, wake from thy dream,
Come look on Him, come partake of His grace.
Sing on, O heavenly host, lift O earth the voices,
With love and adoration each heart fill.
Swells the joyous chorus as man rejoices,
Christ has come—on earth peace, to men good will.

—MAIVA HOLIFIELD.

Christmas, 1940

The sun comes peeking through the shadows
Of a cold and rain.
Most noble sun and wondrous powers,
Of healing aches and pains.
Just so the Babe of Bethlehem,
Came to a world of strife.
Came with wondrous healing power,
Instead of death, He gave us light.
Oh, Church of God, ring out the bells
Of Christmas anthems clear.
Sing and shout, and praise the King,
Whose coming draweth near.
Lift high your heads and be ye lifted up,
Singing hallelujah to the Lamb.
He is coming, yes He's coming for His Own.
From all four corners of the land.
Make some child happy Christmas Day
With those with gray hairs, too.
Cast thy bread on waters deep,
God's love will bring it back to you.

—BELLAR VICTORIA BRANNON.

Christmas

A mother, a baby:
A beautiful star:
And three wise men
From far away:
The picture though old
Yet peace and in story
Still entrances the heart
With song and with glory.

Would Be Sad Pill For U. S. To Swallow

Editor Constitution: Your editorial of December 18 on "Aid to Britain" is excellent. I have read it several times. This sound logic should be actively advocated by every patriotic citizen of this country before it is too late.

The time to speak up is now. If we should wake up in a few months and find England defeated it will be a bitter pill for this country to swallow. It will then be too late to criticize and complain that somebody should have done something about it.

C. M. RAMSPECK.

Atlanta.

These things. Think of whose birthday it is you celebrate. Then think of how far you've failed Him. Think of the sadness that must be in His heart today as He contemplates the world He tried to save.

Yes, I like this Christmas Day idea. But you seem awfully stupid about understanding it and learning its lessons, it does seem to me.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

SANTA CLAUS, IND. It will be difficult to think today. The drums will be beating and horns will be sounding. There will be laughter and happiness and what sorrow there is bravely will be kept out of sight. Those who are miserable and hungry will be fed at least for today, and even the children of squalor and defeat, unloved and unwanted, will catch something of the day in fruit, toy or food.

Today is the established birthday of Jesus of Nazareth, whose teaching constitutes the Christian religion. His birthday has come to be a day which thousands, who are not Christians, observe and celebrate. In a way it is Santa Claus' day. And everyone may celebrate that day. Indeed, if one strips off the red uniform and the whiskers from Santa Claus, one finds underneath it the spirit of kindness, generosity, a feeling for the poor, the sick and the unfortunate. So, it all gets back to the spirit of the Man whose birth is marked by this celebration.

There are those who have some complaint about our modern thought. They say that this Man has been so long associated with cold figures in stained-glass windows and with the figure on the cross, that they forget He walked and talked with the people, with camel drivers; that He was a worker with His hands; that He knew and understood the lot of thieves, prostitutes, the miserable, the persecuted.

All of which brings me up to a thought about Santa Claus. It was occasioned by the experience of Santa Claus, Ind. That small town celebrates Christmas as does no other city. This year one of the merchants had painted, by a celebrated artist, a great figure of Santa Claus atop a chimney.

The figure was a virile, full-bodied figure. The whiskers were not long, useless whiskers, but of a proper length to warm the chin from North Pole winds. In the painting the whiskers were blowing in a hard wind. Naturally there would be a wind on the night of December 25, if one is atop a chimney.

THERE WERE PROTESTS It is surprising there were protests. There were protests at Santa Claus by some of the civic clubs and by the American Legion. They objected to Santa Claus as being a virile figure.

I am wondering if we have not confused the real Santa Claus with the average department store Santa Claus. Have we not come to look for a fat, somewhat shabby figure in a satin suit?

What sort of a man is it that can come down all the chimneys in the world on one and the same night? A shabby, winded fatty? Or a virile, full-bodied man, strong and happy with confidence in himself and his mission?

I am afraid I like the Santa Claus, Ind., Santa Claus better than the shabby, fat kind who do not look as if they could climb up to the chimney top, much less descend it. And ascend it.

The virile, strong Santa Claus seems to me to be the sort of Santa Claus who would think of all the chimneys.

So, I think if I were in Santa Claus, Ind., I would be defending the picture.

THE NEW CHRISTMAS Well, it is quite a period—the Christmas period. It has changed a lot. It can be complex, although it need not be. The old days saw a more simple Christmas and it was, one may be sure, a happy one. I imagine it was what they made it.

Our own is much more complex. But still, it is what we make it. I never quite understood the attitude of those who grow angry because of all the shopping and exchange of gifts which feature the present-day Christmas. So long as reason is employed, there can be no objection to the exchange of gifts. There are always those who make themselves unhappy in envy; always those who burden themselves trying to give to their children more than they need merely for the sake of appearances.

CHRISTMAS EVE COMES ON Sitting in the office, looking out the window, I watched Christmas Eve come on. A light rain had begun to fall. The streets were black and the lights made shadows and colors on the black shine of the asphalt.

The traffic was heavy. Horns sounded and the impatient shrill of the traffic policeman's whistle cut through the sound of automobiles up to my window.

Messenger boys threaded their way through the traffic. On the streets people went hurrying with packages, gay with ribbons and stickers.

A thought of the little towns of Georgia, decorated and gay. I thought of lonely farmhouses, with a wreath in the windows and with a wood fire making the living room cozy and comfortable. I thought of the kitchens, smelling warmly of rich food and of spices. And of the poor kitchens and of the defeated, cheerless rooms where charity is reaching as best it can. And of the welfare workers and the doctors and the nurses who work with this problem which is not new but which has been with us always. And of the children in homes, orphaned or deserted, eager and excited about this thing called Christmas.

There is much work to be done. But Christmas is a great day and a better day, with more thought of what it really means, than ever before.

In spite of the war, did you ask?

Yes, in spite of the war.

Christmas Morning, As You May Have Suddenly Realized

Christmas morning! No, let's tell the truth at last once a year.

If I were writing this Christmas morning it wouldn't be in your paper, which would, I am sure, plumb ruin your whole holiday season.

To be accurate, it is Monday at noon and I still have my Christmas shopping to do. I've been so busy telling other folks to hurry I didn't have time.

But just let's imagine it's Christmas morning. That is, if you're reading this. I wonder who has time to read a newspaper on Christmas Day? I never did.

And let me wish you the very merriest of Christmases and the very happiest of New Years. And while I'm on the subject, I hope you'll have a swell time on Washington's birthday.

Martinet of our mansion handed down a new ruling this year. It has me bothered.

She vowed no Christmas cards should be opened until Christmas morning.

Which has its good points and bad. I'll probably find a card or two from somebody I thought had forgotten us—and it will be too late to rush out and mail one in return. That's bad. On the other hand this will save effort. That's good. Who wants to put out efforts on Christmas Day? Not I.

But my curiosity has become morbid. I've pawed over those envelopes and read the postmarks like an old lady who receives a telegram and spends a half-hour guessing who sent it and who's dead or born before breaking it open to find out.

I always open telegrams pronto, as we say south of the border, down Mexico way. I opened one yesterday. It was a 50-word night letter inviting me to drop in and try out a new super-automobile. Some folk have an odd sense of humor.

Fine Christmas

From what I read in the papers and observe on the streets, it has been a fine Christmas for nearly everybody.

It should have been, for certainly the merchants had the breaks. I can't remember a month before Christmas of such fine weather. Just two or three wet days about two weeks ago.

They tell me retail sales have broken all records since '29, which was the year just before the bottom fell out of the well. Here's hoping all of us have more sense this time. I was tempted to buy a neat yacht the other day—on easy payments—but I refrained. I've kind of cured myself of the yacht-buying habit. Or was cured. Early in 1930 I decided I could get along with the old model another season or two—if I'd had one. I did wish I owned one. I might have traded it in on groceries.

Scoutmaster in our composing room—he Scoutmasters outside union hours—asks me to hand a bouquet to the Boy Scouts who have been hoisting traffic through the rush week. I'm glad he reminded me.

They've done a fine job, as usual—for the public and for themselves. It's a good thing to give a boy a job which carries responsibility and keeps him up on his toes. It is true that in my mad haste to get nowhere in particular I've tripped over a couple of ropes, but that wasn't the Scouts' fault.

Two-Buck Bills.

In receiving change for a five from a country huckster the other day I received a two-dollar bill. Or, note, which I believe is the correct term. But I don't like to speak of notes. They made me what I am today.

How long since you've seen a two-dollar bill? This was my first in several years. It had a corner torn off of course. There's a superstition that two-buck bills are unlucky. If you tear the corner off it takes off the curse.

I asked a bank teller if the two's were still in circulation. He said they were and asked if I wanted some. I said that if they were free I'd take a couple of bushels. He said he feared he'd given me a wrong impression. Did

Men Who Still Cling to Church In Germany Face Bleak Yule

Pastor Niemoller, Famous Prisoner, Spends 4th Christmas in Concentration Camp, But Remains Firm in Refusal To Accept Compromise.

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Pastor Martin Niemoller, of Berlin's world-famous Lutheran congregation, Jesus Christus Kirche, in the swank residential suburb of Dahlem, went to jail in July, 1937, for "misuse of the pulpit," when he declared: "Not you, Herr Hitler, but God is my Fuehrer."

Today will mark his fourth Christmas in prison.

The next-door cell to Niemoller's is occupied by Jesuit priest Robert Mayer, a devoted Catholic priest of the same year, 1937, for having said in a sermon: "It is better for a priest to be shot down in Spain than to see his faith being dragged into the dirt in Germany."

While Pastor Niemoller has been the spearhead of Protestant resistance to the "Fuehrer Principle" of a Nazified Deutsche Christen, Cardinal Michael von Faulhaber, archbishop of Munich, has valiantly led the Catholics of Germany in uncompromising allegiance to their faith.

Majority Are Loyal.

And while there are minority groups both among Protestants and Catholics who have yielded to the pressure of the German state, the great majority of the 40,000,000 Protestants and the 21,000,000 Catholics in Germany have followed the leadership of Niemoller and Faulhaber in courageous loyalty to the Lord Jesus Christ.

As a result of the amazing and thrilling martyrdom of men like Niemoller and Faulhaber, this second Christmas Day of Hitler's war finds upwards of 200,000 Christians (some estimates run as high as 300,000) behind the barbed wire of the frozen Nazi concentration camps," declares Time newsmagazine in its section on Religion, issue of December 23, 1940, pages 38-41.

"Here (in these concentration camps) men bear mute witness that the Christ—whose birth the outside world celebrates unthinkingly at Christmas—can still inspire a living faith for which men and women even now endure imprisonment, torture and death as bravely as in centuries past," continues the graphic description of the author of the article in Time.

Subtle Persecution.

Dr. Henry Smith Leiper, secretary of the World Council of Churches, is quoted by Time as follows: "This is one of the most subtle and terrible persecutions in all history."

Thus, we awake on this Christmas not yet fully able, perhaps, to comprehend the meaning of freedom—the freedom for which our fathers suffered—freedom of religion, freedom of assembly, freedom of speech, freedom of press. Nor can we yet fully appreciate the suffering which many of our fellow human beings are today enduring for this same precious freedom which we yet enjoy.

Does it not draw us closer to our neighbors yonder in Germany when we realize that they are bravely and uncompromisingly standing up in the face of such persecution? Does it not offer tremendous hope that the day will come, even for friends like Niemoller and Faulhaber and Mayer, when the Christian world shall know as never before the liberty that is in Christ Jesus," remembering how He said:

"If ye continue in My word, then are ye My disciples indeed; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." (John 8:31-32.)

The highest tribute to the fortitude of German Christians which I have seen anywhere comes from an eminent German Jew, Dr. Albert Einstein, now an American citizen. This statement has been widely published throughout the world. I read it first in the New York Times, and later in Time, September 23, 1940. He said: "Being a lover of freedom, when the revolution came in Germany, I looked to the universities to defend it, knowing that they had always casted of their devotion to the cause of truth; but, no, the universities immediately were silenced. Then I looked to the great editors of the newspapers whose flaming editorials in days gone by had proclaimed their love of freedom; but they, like the universities, were silenced in a few short weeks. . . . Only the church stood squarely across the path of Hitler's campaign for suppressing truth. I never had any special interest in the church before, but now I feel a great affection and admiration because the church alone has had the courage and persistence to stand for intellectual truth and moral freedom. I am forced thus to confess that what I once despised I now praise unreservedly."

In this connection it is interesting to note that 80 per cent of all persons in concentration camps in Germany are Christians, and only 20 per cent of the prisoners are Jews.

10,000 Pastors Jailed.

The result of this courageous answer of Christianity to Nazism is an eloquent fulfillment of the classic testimony of Tertullian, in his Apologeticus: "The blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church," having reference to the first and second centuries, A. D.

It is estimated that Hitler has imprisoned over 10,000 pastors, priests and monks, and unknown numbers of them have been beaten to death," says the article in Time, December 23, 1940, page 38. Meanwhile Christianity holds a place of esteem in Germany today that it could not claim in the easy-going '20s. Church congregations have increased, and the sales of the Bible in Germany shot up from 830,000 copies in 1933 to 1,255,000 in 1939, topping the sales of "Mein Kampf" by approximately 200,000.

Hitler's Greatest Concern.

Hitler's greatest concern regarding the courageous answer of Christianity to Nazism has been the refusal of the Christians, both Protestant and Catholic, to pray for a Nazi victory. "The Gestapo can silence all open attacks from the pulpit by putting the pastor in jail, but he cannot force the Christians to pray for Nazi success."

The Schwarze Korps, organ of the Elite Guard, admits that this situation is unparalleled in a nation at war, declaring: "The spiritual gentlemen write as though they want to make our soldiers dislike the war. They do not find a single word to say about the purpose of the war. They do not pray for victory."

Pastors Schutte and Kramm, of Aplerbeck, are quoted as saying: "There are sufficient enemies all around us. Maybe the English and French are not the worst."

In Cologne the Nazis were able to get Catholic churches to pray not for victory but "for our soldiers." The prayer also included appointed reference to St. Conrad, of Parzham, a Bavarian monk whom Pope Pius XI canonized in 1934 as an example of deep humility as opposed to Nazism's "racial pride which is neither Christian nor human," says the article in Time. In Munster, the bishop, instead of telling his diocese to pray for victory, ordered daily recitation of the prayer: "Lord, grant us peace! Queen of Heaven, pray for us!"

Pagan Basis.

A Catholic news dispatch from Geneva last month said: "It is generally anticipated that in the case of a victorious war the Nazi regime would no longer hesitate to wipe out all vestiges of Christianity in Germany and try to establish a 'national church' under Nazi supervision which would be entirely based on the pagan conceptions of 'blood and soil.'"

More than 55 per cent of the Protestant pastors in Germany have been mobilized for army service, most of the mas privates. They singled out confessional pastors especially, placing up to 75 per cent of the pastors in some sections in front-line service, basing their action on the example of David, when he had Bathsheba's husband put in the forefront of the hottest battle "that he might be smitten and die."

More than 5,000 Protestant pastors have had their entire salaries confiscated by the government. When the people discovered that the Nazis were thus persecuting the pastors, they refused to make offerings. In 1939 the Nazis closed more than 700 German monasteries and convents, and last month expelled 60 Catholic priests from their parishes. Of the 1,000 Protestant ministerial students in the various seminaries of Germany in 1939, only 100 were permitted ordination after their views were examined by state officials, the other 900 flatly refusing to "Nazify their faith."

"No Peace."

Thomas Mann, German-born professor at Princeton University, said last week: "There can be no real peace between the cross and the swastika. National Socialism is essentially un-Christian and anti-Christian."

Although Hitler now has the majority of the Christians solidly lined up against his campaign to

'Phantom' U. S. Professors Aid Defense Work

Science Teachers Get Leaves To Fulfill Secret Missions.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE, Associated Press Science Editor. NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—An index of the wide, unseen scope of American defense preparations is the number of missing professors at the great American universities.

Ask any university what it is doing to aid defense and the reply is almost universal—"That is confidential."

Look around the campus among the professors well known in science, and from one to a dozen or more are not there this winter. Inquire why. "They are on leave for a government defense project."

What are they doing? "Can't say."

Write to them, as personal acquaintances, and the reply will be, as in case of one famous man: "I can't talk about the really interesting things we are doing."

They are not only missing, they are the "phantom professors." They are by no means all the scientists busy on Uncle Sam's defenses, but the nature of their work, suggested by an occasional anecdote that leaks past the voluntary silence and the few official reports, indicates that this war is calling in all the sciences.

Sudden Departure.

One morning this fall I was looking for a professor who still is teaching his classes. He had left on a plane that morning.

Around 3 a. m. the next day I found him back, and over the Scotch he told me he had flown, by request, to one of the country's great industrial laboratories.

They wanted his advice on a "problem" connected with "defense." He looked it over and told them this great corporation's laboratory lacked the facilities to give the answers.

He arranged for them to transfer this work, secretly, to the laboratory of a university about half the width of the United States away.

There are two unusual, almost amazing facts about this incident which can be told. First, the corporation deals in food of certain kinds; second, the laboratory where the problem was sent is not a food laboratory at all.

What sort of war problem would a food maker send to a university laboratory that does not do anything for the food business?

Professors Won't Talk. There just is no answer, not even a good guess. The phantom professors won't tell, even over the Scotch. One thing should be noted well, however. The problem, whatever it is, was not invented by professors, but by military needs and military leaders.

In Washington a scientist on the staff of the Carnegie Institution sent a telegram to a professor at Columbia University. The telegram inquired about some mathematical results which had been worked out in connection with the possibility that uranium-235 may hold the key to atomic power.

These mathematics were nothing secret. The sender of the telegram saved himself a few hours figuring by getting a result already previously public property.

However, presently a representative of the government visited the Carnegie scientist and asked him not to use the telegram for correspondence about uranium-235.

The probable reason for this has been told me by some of the phantom professors. I have not heard it officially, but they say the military authorities have taken over supervision of the atomic power situation in this country.

Search Is Real.

A visiting professor from Europe is authority for a statement that Hitler more than a year ago put 25 physicists and an entire institute at work on this same problem.

The probabilities that uranium-235 will be of use in this war are about as remote as the chance that Churchill and Hitler will shake hands tomorrow. Yet the search for something that may be useful is undoubtedly real, because some day, even though it may be 1,000 years from now, U-235 will lead to practical things.

A question about as remote from war as anything ever imagined is one which the Journal of Applied Physics says military authorities have been asking.

"What can atom-smashing do for the Army or the Navy?" is the gist of this question.

Many answers can be made. All would be remote possibilities, but some would deal with fascinating problems in detection and attack. The most important answer just now is that nothing in science is being overlooked.

If the military leaders don't ask the questions, the scientists do. Throughout the nation, professors who never dreamed of their odd kind of work getting into war, are asking "what can my laboratory do to be of service."

18 Professors Absent.

The stock "confidential" reply came when I asked what Harvard is doing. However, the Harvard alumni bulletin listed 18 Harvard professors absent on defense projects this semester, and told about President Conant giving up some of his vacation to work in Washington last summer.

Conant, even before he became president, was among the world's foremost chemists.

A University of Illinois authority made the nearest reply. "Illinois is doing nothing," said he. If you recall the World War, this answer is equivalent to saying "The scientists here are up to their necks, but not talking."

From 1917 on, a few days after German poison gas had been dropped on American troops, samples of the gas were in a University of Illinois laboratory for analysis. Illinois has scientists who are inevitably a part of any defense program. The same is true of the other great universities and of numerous small ones.

On the Pacific coast the phantom professors are not talking any more than elsewhere. It has come out, however, that at the University of Washington, Dr. C. L. Uterback is studying "light penetration in sea water and the visibility of various colors under water."

Submarine Camouflage.

This means submarine camouflage. But if anyone doubts, it is true that both subjects have many other angles of scientific interest which have caused them to be studied for years.

The west coast's major aviation manufacturers are using the University of Washington wind tunnel 18 hours a day, including Sundays. Many colleges have started courses of study to fit young men for war or defense. Typical is the University of Chicago's course in exterior ballistics. Artillery fire and bombing both are dependent on this subject.

At the University of Indiana, Dr. C. M. Louthit, director of the psychological clinic, has reported to Washington to serve in selection of United States Navy recruits.

Last summer Dr. Halliwell Davis, of Harvard, spent more time in Florida experimenting with brain waves (electrical brain potentials) of Navy men. The object was to learn whether this new scientific technique can help in identifying men fitted for flying.

Purdue, Indiana, Cornell, Tulane, Yale and Harvard are dividing some studies of airplane pilot qualities. Indiana takes the mental processes involved in learning how to fly, Purdue the tests for pilots, Cornell the reactions under sustained flight, Tulane failures and near accidents, Yale the emotional stresses and Harvard the physiological changes in men.

400 Children 45 Children Are Guests of 34 Nations At Yule Party

Group Sees 'The Thief of Bagdad' at Loew's.

More than 400 youngsters sat enthralled yesterday while the magic of "The Thief of Bagdad" unfolded before their wondering eyes. Attending as guests of The Constitution and Loew's Grand theater, the children, all of whom were orphans from the Georgia Baptist Orphans' Home in Hapeville, the Methodist Children's Home in Decatur, the Hillside Cottages and the Hebrew Orphanage, thrilled at the antics of Sabu, the young Indian boy who plays the part of the mischievous little thief, who constantly risks his precious neck in search of adventure.

They sat awed at the tremendous size of the giant Djinni, who like the famed acrobat, "flies through the air with the greatest of ease." They voiced their delight at the "Flying Horse," and sat spellbound as the picture reeled off feats of magic genius, produced in a setting of bewildering color, the like of which had never previously been seen.

Arriving in special buses, the youngsters immediately swarmed around the giant Christmas tree in the lobby of the theater. Their anxious eyes drank in the beauty of the colorful decorations and many were the "Oh's" and "Ah's" to be heard from all sides. It was their party and the happiness provided left little, if anything, to the imagination.

"The Thief of Bagdad" began a holiday engagement yesterday at Loew's and it was only fitting that the orphaned youngsters should be among the first to gaze upon its wondrous charm.

Produced by Alexander Korda at a cost of more than $2,000,000, the picture, complete in technicolor, had its world premiere in Warm Springs, where at the special request of President Roosevelt the opening performance was given for the inmates of the institution without benefit of box office receipts and the usual fanfare. Upon being booked into Loew's Grand, it was immediately decided to present the picture as a Christmas treat to the orphans of Atlanta under the sponsorship of The Constitution and Loew's.

16-Year-Old Boy Begins Life in Prison

San Jose Youth Convicted of Slaying Girl Schoolmate.

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., Dec. 24.—(P)—A pale-faced 16-year-old boy has entered San Quentin prison to serve a life sentence for the slaying of a young girl schoolmate.

He is Robert Mandell, of San Jose, convicted of the bludgeoning death of Josephine Parnes, 15. The boy was met by Warden Clinton Duffy, who said he would start classes in the prison school Monday—as he had requested—and that he would not be placed in the prison juke mill or be brought into contact with older convicts any more than necessary.

Duffy said he would "watch the boy very carefully and do my best to help him grow up as properly as possible in this environment."

The body of the Parnes girl was found in the dry creek bed near San Jose, July 1. Mandell was convicted of murder November 16.

Exploding Star Is Discovered In Dust Cloud

Astrophysicist Sights It With 18-Inch Telescope.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 24.—(P) Professor Fritz Zwicky said he had discovered an exploding star which appeared to be obscured partially in a dust cloud in a distant star system. He believed it was the first such star to be found.

The technical astrophysicist of the California Institute of Technology sighted it with the 18-inch telescope at Mount Palomar, the 15th super nova to be found by that instrument.

"The brightest super nova was discovered at Mount Palomar in 1937," he said.

"It was 600,000,000 times as bright as the sun. This super nova and the faint one found in the big spiral Nebula NGC 253 are the nearest of the 15. Light from them would require 3,000,000 years to reach us."

New Armor Will Protect Bomber Pilots

Bullet-proof Cockpits Being Rushed by N. J. Plants.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 24.—(P)—Pilots of large United States and Great Britain bombing planes will soon be protected by new bullet-proof cockpit armor being rushed by three Breeze Corporation plants here.

The armor, developed at the company's laboratories in Elizabeth, will give pilots more adequate protection from the rear. It conforms to the general shape of the body and will provide protection from the head to below the knees. A cowl-like top and extra width at the elbows help increase its effectiveness.

The armor weighs about 120 pounds and will provide adequate resistance against machinegun bullets.

A company official said heretofore most cockpit armor has consisted of small or medium-sized triangular bulkheads behind the pilot's head and at a point before him. The new armor, he said, would protect him against enemy planes diving without warning from the rear.

He added that processes developed by the company enabled them to speed production greatly.

White Bougainvillea

Is Insured for $5,000

FORT MYERS, Fla., Dec. 24.—(P)—Nurseryman James A. Hendry says he has what he believes to be the only white bougainvillea plant in the United States.

He says it was brought to him by airplane from South America and he valued it so highly he had insured it for $5,000 against cold, blight, insects and plant diseases.

The nurseryman has developed more than 300 different varieties of bougainvilleas by cross pollination, but he said he never had been able to produce a pure white flower. The blossoms usually are shades of purple and red.

His Photograph, Sacred Images To Be Mailed.

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 24.—(P) Pope Pius expects to extend Christmas greetings to war prisoners in various countries by mailing his photograph, sacred images and special apostolic benedictions, informed sources have revealed.

The pope also has decided to send money to his representatives to purchase small gifts of clothing and other necessities for the prisoners, they said.

A Christmas truce between the warring powers recently was asked by the pope but went unheeded.

Weather Man's Christmas for Playgrounds

California, Florida Have 'Worst' of Any State.

By The Associated Press.
The usually delightful winter playgrounds, Florida and California, are experiencing a mess of "unusual" Christmas weather.

Forecaster A. J. Knarr, of Chicago, said those states easily captured the dubious honors for "the worst weather in the nation" yesterday. Drenching rains soaked Florida and spread into Georgia and Alabama. California, too, had torrential rain as well as an 82-mile wind near San Francisco. Western Washington and Oregon also were soaked and a 56-mile wind was reported at North Head, Wash., at the mouth of the Columbia river.

Weather Mild.
Virtually all the rest of the country had mild and mostly fair weather, meantime, Knarr said.

Knarr outlined the Christmas Day prospects this way:
Rain continuing along the Pacific coast, in most of the territory west of the Rocky Mountains, in northern Florida and spreading through the south Atlantic states.

Generally fair in the rest of the southern and midwest states, cloudy in the eastern states, with rain beginning there tonight.

Texas Is Best.
The Rio Grande valley in Texas having probably the finest weather in the country, bright with the mercury in the 60s.
Light snow had fallen or was forecast along the west slope of the Rockies in the northern extremity of that area it has already turned to rain.

Chicago enjoyed 51-degree weather yesterday and was due for similarly mild conditions today. Minneapolis, Minn., had its warmest Christmas Eve since 1891 when the mercury rose to 44 yesterday.

Twenty-four-hour rainfall recorded in Florida yesterday included 3.92 inches at Ocala, 3.80 at Gainesville, 2.76 inches at Orlando in the heart of the orange groves, 2.10 inches at Sanford in the celery country. Lake county in central Florida had 8.36 inches since Thursday. The rain broke a two-month drought.

In California the 24-hour down-pour totaled 3.77 inches at Beverly Hills, a 30-hour fall reached 3.74 inches at San Diego, water ran curb high in Los Angeles. A large part of inland California was drenched, too.

In northern states old snow in varying amounts remained on the ground in the Dakotas, Minnesota, northern Iowa, northern Wisconsin, upper Michigan, northern New York state, and New England.

5 New Shows Open Today In Theaters

Range From Comedy to Tropical Romance, Frontier Story.

Five new shows—a comedy, a frontier story, a stage revue, diamond thieves, and a tropical romance—open in Atlanta's theaters today as the entertainment changes early this week for Christmas.

"Love Thy Neighbor," with Fred Allen and Jack Benny, begins today at the Fox; "Arizona," with Jean Arthur, at the Rialto; "World of Pleasure," revue at the Capitol plus the film, "Charter Pilot;" "One Night at the Tropics," with Nancy Kelly and Allen Jones, at the Paramount; and "South of Suez," with George Brent and Brenda Marshall, at the Roxy.

"Thief of Bagdad," began yesterday at the Grand and "Dr. Kildare's Crisis" started unrolling then at the Rhodes.

Fox

Fred Allen and Jack Benny will continue their long standing feud in celluloid beginning today at the Fox theater. The film is "Love Thy Neighbor" and Mary Martin, who sang her way to fame with "My Heart Belongs to Daddy," does the same number in this movie.

The entire film is devoted to the feud, except for a free brief scenes in which they become friends only to start feuding even harder.

In the cast is Rochester, the Benny valet who has become almost as big a drawing attraction as his "boss." Miss Martin, cast as Allen's niece, joins Benny's show in an effort to bring about a reconciliation of the two enemies, but she falls in love with Rochester and breaks out in the strangest places—motorboats, trains, hotel suites, theaters.

Capitol

Stage vodvil returns to Atlanta today with the appearance of Dan Fitch's 20th anniversary revue, "World of Pleasure," in which an Atlanta girl is featured, Iris Eison, who won the "Miss Miami Beach" title in 1939.

Entertainers with the unit are Ralph Rogers & Company in "The Count of No Account;" Fowler and Fay, jitterbug champions; Eugene and Louise Southern in modern entertainment; Swift and Swift, novelty actors; Bronlee Brothers, European bar actors; Patricia Carey, gymnastic dances; the Four American Beauties in dance novelties and the Myrtle Walston girls.

The film attraction with the show is "Charter Pilot," in which Lloyd Nolan and Lynn Bari are featured.

Rialto

Clarence Buddington Kelland's novel of the frontier America of Civil War days, "Arizona," is the Christmas opening at the Rialto, furnishing Jean Arthur with her first picture in which she is not sharing billing with a male star of greater luminance.

The story tells of old Tucson. Jean is the lone white woman in the town who makes her way in a man's manner in a man's town. She manages to get control of many enterprises and matches her wits against the town's bad men, played by Porter Hall and Warren William.

They nearly get the best of her, but then her champion comes to town, a young soldier of fortune played by William Holden, who sets about courting her and making her take off pants for dresses. This is a spectacular film, produced in elaborate manner with Wesley Ruggles directing.

Paramount

Allan Jones teams romantically with Nancy Kelly in the South American romance, "One Night in the Tropics," which is the Christmas attraction at the Paramount theater.

The film also features dancing, comedy and song. Peggy Moran and Nina Orla, the new Mexican actress, get special roles, as do Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, stage comedians.

New songs in the movie are: "Farandola," "You and Your Kiss," "Simple Philosophy," "Your Dream" and "Remind Me."

On the Paramount's same bill will be the new March of Time,

SEEKING SLAYER—A posse of Georgia State Highway Patrolmen is shown here searching the woods near Decatur, Tenn., for the fugitive slayer of Sergeant W. Fred Black Jr., member of the Georgia State Highway Patrol, who was shot and killed last Friday night by the driver of an automobile he was cautioning against speeding. The elusive slayer has evaded several traps and is still at large.

Posse Closes In on Killer Of Patrolman

The manhunt for the slayer of a Georgia highway patrolman entered its fifth day last night as police and possemen from two states closed in on the wounded and exhausted fugitive.

Their efforts were spurred by the announcement of two $500 rewards, offered by citizens of north Georgia, where the murder occurred last Friday night, and by the state of Georgia under the sponsorship of Governor Rivers. Meanwhile, early reports that the fugitive had escaped a police trap by crossing the Hiwassee river in a skiff were denied by Commissioner Lon Sullivan.

It was found later that the mysterious figure who "borrowed" the boat from a nearby CCC camp was in reality a resident of the community who promptly returned the boat after using it to cross the river.

Twenty Tennessee state patrolmen, 14 Georgia officers and more than 100 deputized citizens are now engaged in the hunt. Part of the force has surrounded the man in an area seven miles square, about 10 miles south of Decatur, Tenn.

The killer is believed to be Charles Butler, alias Charles Coates, who escaped recently from a Missouri prison. He is alleged to have killed Georgia Patrol Corporal W. F. Black, on a lonely stretch of road near Ringgold, when Black attempted to warn him for a minor traffic violation.

'Blitzkrieg' No Miracle, Nazi Militarists Say

Main Credit Given to Infantry, Courage of Individual Men.

For North American Newspaper Alliance. WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—Some conclusions reached by the German military mind as a result of the series of Nazi Army victories in Europe are set forth in an issue of the "Militär Wochenblatt," published in Berlin, which has just been received here and made available by authoritative quarters.

The Nazi's emphasis is not upon "blitzkrieg" and secret weapons in this technical military publication, but upon the power and effectiveness of the infantry and the cooperation of other armed branches with it. "Militär Wochenblatt" is edited by retired generals of the regular German Army and circulates chiefly among Army officers, according to the German Library of Information, in New York. It has been published continuously since 1815.

The article "Die Infanterie im Blitzkrieg," published August 20, 1940, follows: "The catchwords 'blitzkrieg' and 'new tactics,' which our enemies have adopted and which we, too, have quickly accepted, seem to have given rise to a wholly false conception in the minds of many people. It is time to analyze these terms in order that the valuable experience gained in previous wars may not be lost, that we may be guided by new experience gained in the present war, and that the victories won by an ingenious command and well-trained troops may not be minimized through the belief in a miracle.

"Many Examples." "When all the national political forces available are concentrated in the hands of an ingenious command capable of changing its decisions and glad to assume responsibility, and when these forces are fully utilized, even a strong enemy army cannot prevent it from winning victories. This is not a new phenomenon in the history of the world, and there are many examples of it.

"NO SECRET ABOUT THEIR SUCCESS"—German militarists, writing in an issue of the "Militär Wochenblatt," published in Berlin, declare they have no secret to withhold regarding blitzkrieg successes of the German army. They say that German infantrymen, such as those pictured above, brought about final decisions in the Nazi conquests because they reached the enemy while still in possession of sufficient firing and attacking power. Individual courage was also declared to have been a major factor.

"Nevertheless, examples of military and political successes like those of the present war have been rare. They are based upon no secret, but rather upon the union of a strong nation under a single will in combatting democratic, disunited and decadent nations.

"Our enemies have applied such catchwords as 'blitzkrieg' and 'new tactics' to these victories and have thereby tried to imply, in order to conceal their own military failures, that we were using some secret force. The soldier, however, must not allow his clear vision of what is necessary in a war and of the causes of success or failure to be dimmed. He does not fight with catchwords; he sees to it that troops are well trained, that all arms co-operate, and that all are fully utilized in combat. A test should be made on a larger scale in order to see whether we are employing secrets and have thereby wrought incomprehensible miracles, or whether we have merely been on the right track and have won our successes like honorable soldiers.

Principles Outlined. "In studying this question we can take as a basis the following principles from the tactics of the combined arms. These principles are probably defined as the objects of training in the military regulations of all countries:

"1. The object of all arms is to allow the infantry to reach the enemy while still in possession of sufficient firing and attacking power to bring about a final decision. "Great importance is attached to the infantry in our Army, with full knowledge of the principle on which the good old German military ideal is based; namely, that the course and efficiency of the individual soldier is the decisive factor, regardless of the technique employed. The infantry constitutes the main arm, and is supported by all the other arms, which try to see to it, as far as possible, that the infantry is able to engage in close combat against the enemy with its strength impaired as little as possible.

"If our aviators and tanks have succeeded during the present war in utilizing this tactical principle to such good advantage in many places that the infantry has often encountered an already crushed foe, this merely proves that our troops of all arms have been properly trained and that the importance of the infantry's missions has diminished.

New Strategic Methods

"The bulk of the infantry must rely upon the co-operation of the artillery; the various engagements in Poland and the decisive attacks upon the Weygand line (the line of the Somme and Aisne rivers) and the Maginot Line have demonstrated this fact. They have also proved that the enemy's last resistance must be broken, as hitherto, by the infantry, and that in the last hundred meters of a charge the infantry must accomplish this result unaided and solely by force of its own weapons. The infantry, relying upon its own power, was conscious of its strength just as it was during the World War, and it won a victory by employing new strategic methods. In conformity with its mission, it bore the main burden of the struggle and proved to be queen of the battlefield.

"2. A beaten enemy is relentlessly pursued, and each man gives every ounce of strength that he has in accomplishing this purpose.

Bold Action Needed.

"The attacking troops keep at the beaten enemy's heels; no weariness, however extreme, can cause them to give up the pursuit. During the pursuit, the tanks, aviators, and fast troops develop the tactical success into a strategic one. Nevertheless, the infantry also continues to take part in the pursuit, and it must accomplish great feats, as the present war has shown once more. It presses forward relentlessly and is not afraid to lose temporarily the previously close support of its neighbors in order to prevent the enemy from making a new stand. "This necessitates bold and decisive action on the part of the subordinate commanders, who can usually count only upon their own respective units and must wage the combat without relying on the assistance of their neighbors. It is perhaps in just this kind of combat that we have shown ourselves strongest during the present war.

"A consideration of the principles just described will show very plainly that troops had been adequately prepared and trained for combat. In accordance with the missions assigned them, all arms have supported the infantry so fully that in many cases the ideal of enabling the infantry to reach the enemy with its strength still unimpaired was almost com-

Crew Works Fascists Defy Like Machine Churchill; King In British Tank Shows Loyalty

Middleton Finds Driver Was School Teacher Before War.

By DREW MIDDLETON. WITH THE BRITISH ROYAL ARMORED CORPS, SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Dec. 24. (AP)—By preference, I'll take a destroyer in a gale; but you have to have tanks in a war.

Ever ride in one?

You squeeze through the tank's conning tower into a chamber that makes a submarine seem roomy. . . an inch from your face is a telescope calibrated for fire by the tank's two-pounder and Besa machinegun . . . your right shoulder rests on a brace by which you elevate or deflect the guns by moving a shoulder . . . The commander's voice crackles through your earphones.

"Here we go!" he hollers, and the cruiser tank swings into action with a terrific grinding noise. It's like the engine room of a ship. Every available inch is filled with machinery, levers, dials and ammunition.

Lurching and Dipping. The steady clack-clack of the tracks and the pounding roar of the motors deafens you. The continuous lurching and dipping motion makes you long for the comparative steadiness of that aforementioned destroyer in a gale.

Curiously, the crew doesn't seem to mind. They move as steadily and efficiently as machines. They never bump painfully into apparatus, as you do, and they seem unaffected by the racket or motion.

In the gunner's telescope, trees and brush suddenly loom up. They're so close you duck—and bang your head on a lever. Then you see the trees suddenly whip down as the tank grinds through them, and there's a crashing-cracking noise and the tank grunts like a huge animal. The tank roars on.

The Besa gun fires at full speed. The noise of its report is deafening. Bullets pierce the shell of the target like cheese and crash into a brick wall behind.

After it's all over, you talk to the driver, who was a school teacher before the war.

He says the firing doesn't disturb him because he's got too much to do.

"When you're in action, you never notice explosions or recoil," he said nonchalantly. "Once I left the hatch open and the blast from the two-pounder burned my hair off. But that was extraordinary."

"This," he insisted, "is just an ordinary job."

Appointment of Eden as Foreign Minister Irritates Gayda.

ROME, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Winston Churchill's appeal to the Italian people over Premier Mussolini's head was met with blasts of defiance and denunciation by Fascist spokesmen today, and the royal family itself made a show of loyalty to the Fascist regime and its course in the war.

Virginia Gayda, one of Fascism's most authoritative editors, declared that the appointment of Anthony Eden to head the British foreign office was a "worthy crown in this foggy end of a year of extreme Fascist politics."

He called Eden a "typical representative of British arrogance, an embodiment of 'insolent hostility,'" and said his elevation could "only hasten the victory of the Axis powers in Europe and Africa and of Japan in Asia."

King Sends Message. Dr. Giovanni Ansaldo, editor of the Leghorn Telegrafo, went on the air with a violent retort to Churchill. Earlier, the government itself had answered that "the war will continue on all fronts until victory" and King Vittorio Emanuele had declared in a Christmas message to the nation's armed forces that "no obstacle and no difficulty may halt the glorious rise of Italy."

In a blast of sarcasm and indignation sharply contrasting with his regular drawing broadcasts to the armed forces, Ansaldo denounced Churchill's attempt to subvert Italians, declaring that Italy's two war aims were:

First, "to keep our word of honor or with our Germany," and second, "to shake off" the humiliation of always being threatened by England, bottled up in the Mediterranean and stopped.

Sympathy Ridiculed. "It is fine for him to talk of sympathy for the Italian people," Ansaldo said of Churchill, but added that Italians have not forgotten that England "tried to strangle us and starve us."

It is the old English game of trying to separate the church from the people, Ansaldo asserted. He added that they tried it with Napoleon and Wilhelm II "and now are trying it with Italy."

The newspaper Il Giornale d'Italia reported, meanwhile, that 80 German pilots visited Il Duce's birthplace at Forlì in "passing thorough" that town, but it failed to say where they were headed. Forlì is in northeast Italy, near the Adriatic coast opposite Yugoslavia.

Whether you have a few suitcases or many items of furniture to be moved you can find somebody for the job by turning to Classification 84—"Moving and Storage."

Invasion Near, More Weapons Nazi Chiefs at To Stop War, Channel Say Purvis Says

'God, You Gave Us the Fuehrer,' Hess Declares.

BERLIN, Dec. 24.—(UP)—Germany's war leaders spending Christmas Eve in the front lines of the Nazi "invasion front" tonight flung a warning across the channel that the hour is drawing nearer when Adolf Hitler will give the order for the big assault on the British Isles.

"Divine justice is against England," Germany's 4,000,000 armed men and her people were told by Rudolf Hess, the Reich's No. 2 deputy Fuehrer and vice-chief of the Nazi party.

"God, You gave us the Fuehrer. . . . You blessed his struggle in mighty victory," said Hess in a radio broadcast from a Nazi air-drome in northern France.

"Channel No Protection." General Field Marshal Walther von Brauchitsch, commander-in-chief of the German army, said in a Christmas Eve broadcast that the English Channel will protect Britain "only so long as it suits us."

"I know you are burning with the desire finally to come to grips with the Englishman and how you are only awaiting the Fuehrer's order to do so," he told the German people.

Brauchitsch spoke from a French schoolroom serving as an auditorium for the gunners of a battery of German long-range "Big Bertha" guns which have been bombarding England's coast and shipping in the English channel.

Hitler himself left Berlin aboard a special train during the day and it was announced officially that like last Christmas he would spend the day with his troops at the front as "the first soldier of the Reich."

Sends Photos of Self.

Tomorrow, it was believed, he may broadcast a Christmas message to the armed forces and the German people. Hitler's personal Christmas gifts to his friends are, for the most part, autographed photographs of himself and his own water color paintings.

Brauchitsch in his broadcast lauded the victories of German arms during the past year.

"Again I speak to you," he said, "from under the Christmas tree—last year it was before the Maginot line which was supposed to defend France but which cannot do so today. Today it is before the wall of water which likewise will protect England only so long as it suits us."

British Mineworkers

Get Raises for Yule

LONDON, Dec. 24.—(AP)—British mineworkers got this Christmas present from Will Lawther, head of the Mineworkers' Federation.

Announcement that wage increases of six pence (10 cents) per shift for adults and three pence (5 cents) for boys would become effective for the quarter beginning January 1.

Mexican Deputies Favor State Control of Railways

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 24.—(AP)—The chamber of deputies approved unanimously today the proposal of President Manuel Avila Camacho to replace the worker administration of the national railways with government management.

The bill now goes to the senate, where swift approval is predicted. The speaker during the brief debate in the chamber said the national interest required direct governmental control of the debt-ridden lines.

Speeding Up of Production in Next 60 or 90 Days Urged.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Calling for more weapons quickly as "the keynote to stopping the war," Britain's chief buyer, Arthur Purvis, brought a fresh report on British war needs from his country to Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau today.

Ships, he said, and "maintaining the British merchant fleet so that supplies can be brought from America to Great Britain" constituted the most urgent immediate problem.

Linked with that, he declared on his return to the capital from England, was the need for greatly accelerated production of war material in the coming 60 or 90 days.

"The production of weapons," he said, "both in the United Kingdom and North America—by which I mean both the United States and Canada—is the keynote to stopping the war."

"The more we produce in the next few weeks, the greater will be the production six months from now." Purvis, director-general of the British Purchasing Commission, spent an hour describing to Morgenthau the conditions he found in England and its present requirements.

'Swede' Phillips Will Join Smithie Coaching Staff Immediately

BY JACK TROY

Think Nothing of It Christmas gift (or how to become financially independent on four easy tips). If you have pencil and paper ready, here are the bowl winners for January 1, 1941, and the reasons (we hope):

SUGAR BOWL—We put the Sugar Bowl first because it is the top attraction of the New Year. Boston College and Tennessee, two great unbeaten and untied teams, will at least play for the championship of the eastern seaboard, if not the whole United States. I have seen Boston College slaughter two Southern teams—Tulane and Auburn. And I have seen Tennessee make a shambles of a supposedly good Duke team.

Boston College is unquestionably the largest college team in America. And speed has not been sacrificed for size. The Eagles of Coach Leahy use the Notre Dame system smartly. The attack is well balanced. There is power plus and passing par excellence. It is unquestionably a great team and the Eagles would like to win a Bowl game, having lost to Clemson last January 1 in the Cotton Bowl.

Tennessee can start nine men who have played in two previous Bowl games. Tennessee is not nearly as large as Boston College, but is large enough. The Vols are great blockers and employ a deadly kicking game. There is power and passing and speed and plenty of finesse. The Vols, too, are great. And they would like to win a Bowl game, having lost to Southern California last January 1 in the Rose Bowl.

By virtue of a little extra smartness and finesse, I'll take Tennessee by a narrow margin.

Orange Bowl We put the Orange Bowl second because it is second only to the Sugar Bowl as a New Year's Day attraction. Mississippi State and Georgetown are two of the great teams of the nation. State was tied by a late and great Auburn rally. It's the only blemish. After almost three years of consecutive winning, Georgetown lost by a point to Boston College, and B. C. rallied to win. Miss. State uses the Tennessee system to a "4", or maybe as a sort of carbon copy. There is the same fundamental skill—great blocking and tackling, superb kicking, break-away running, etc.

Here is another east vs. south battle of giants. There is very little to choose. Georgetown is much larger than Miss. State, man for man, but the Maroons, like Tennessee, are big enough.

Georgetown employs the Notre Dame system, and lacks nothing, if the three-year record is to be believed. Usually, if a team doesn't have it, it shows up before that long a period.

But I'll take Miss. State. And for the same reason that I take Tennessee. A little extra smartness and finesse.

Cotton Bowl There is only one reason for ranking the Cotton Bowl third. And that is because it belongs next to the Sugar and Orange and slightly ahead of the Rose.

Texas A. & M. had one of those inevitable days and lost to an inspired Texas team. But it still doesn't take much away from the greatness of Kimbrough and company. The Aggies have plenty. It is largely the same team that defeated Tulane in the Sugar Bowl last season. Kimbrough has been stopped only once in his career. Texas did it by a desperate defense.

Jimmy Crowley's Fordham Rams rank as one of the eastern powers. So here is a third south vs. east battle of brawn and speed and skill.

And again I'll take the host team, which happens to be Homer Norton's Aggies. They have everything they need, including Jarrin' John Kimbrough, who may never be stopped again... unless it be by Father Time.

Rose Bowl The once proud Rose Bowl has a unique attraction. Virtually two western teams are playing—Stanford and Nebraska.

There is no eastern or midwestern or southern appeal. Stanford is one of few major unbeaten and untied teams, to be sure, and is a most worthy Pacific Coast Conference representative in the Rose Bowl. But the intersectional perfume has gone. Nebraska may be one of the mighty powers, but the Cornhuskers can't supply east vs. west, or south vs. west competition.

So the Rose Bowl ranks last in the nation's Bowl picture. The once proud Rose Bowl had to take what it could get.

And the largest crowd of the day—90,000—will be in the Pasadena bowl for the game simply because the game annually is a sell-out regardless of who's playing. It's a tradition to see a Rose Bowl game, and folks are paying a fancy top this year purely in the name of tradition.

Here's a vote for Stanford, the host team. And a merry Christmas to all.

Armstrong Begins Training for Zivic

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—(P)—Henry Armstrong, dethroned as welterweight champion on October 4, returned to New York today to begin a campaign to regain the title from Fritz Zivic in Madison Square Garden January 17.

He will remain in town over the Christmas holidays, then will go to Greenwood Lake, N. Y., to begin active training for the return bout. Since his manager, Eddie Mead, is confined to a hospital at Hot Springs, Ark., Armstrong will be handled by his regular trainer, Harry Armstrong, his brother.

Armstrong put up one of the greatest showings ever seen in the Garden in losing to Zivic. The gallant little Negro, both eyes punched closed by the Pittsburgh sharpshooter, fought blindly to the finish, then toppled face-forward to the canvas as the final bell sounded.

Mack Makes Plans for '42

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 24.—(P)—At 78, Connie Mack is considering the possibility of taking his Philadelphia Athletics to South America for their 1942 spring training.

The American Leaguers now train in California, but their contract on the coast expires in 1942. Mack, chatting with baseball writers at his birthday luncheon yesterday, said the A's might try the "Argentine way" after that.

"It might be one of those friendly neighbor visits," Connie said, adding that lack of major league competition would not deter him if he found an ideal place either in the Argentine or Brazil.

Mack also has considered Cuba as a training site, but said he wouldn't try Havana unless he had a better team.

Gehring Signs For Another Year

DETROIT, Dec. 24.—(P)—The Detroit Tigers announced today that Charlie Gehring, veteran second baseman, had signed with the club for 1941. It will be his 15th season in a Detroit baseball uniform.

Terms of the contract, negotiated between Gehring and President Walter O. Briggs in Miami, Fla., were not disclosed. Members of the Tiger staff said Gehring was again expected to serve as a regular.

The announcement set at rest rumors that Gehring, who is 37 years old, would retire from organized baseball. The reports have been current since the World Series, the third in which he had participated for the Tigers.

J. J. Mooney, Detroit racing enthusiast, has named one of his yearling trotters "Tiger Hank" in honor of Hank Greenberg.

Santa's Helper Offers Advice, Sympathy and Understanding

To Indians, Vitt, Oliver, Harmon Friesell, Yankees and Other Big Names of Year.

By WHITNEY MARTIN.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—Not to be outdone by the fellow who gave homing pigeons as Christmas presents, this corner cheerily digs deep into a wealth of sheer nerve to again offer advice, sympathy and understanding.

The advice, at least, is sure to come back, but we don't think we'll accept it. Who wants to go jump in a lake at this time of year?

Anyway, here's Santa's little helper, whiskers and all:

ADVICE

Cleveland Indians—If you should have anything against your new manager, don't write—tell him. Your plot against Oscar Vitt made you a laughing stock. A case of Vitt and humor.

Ed Oliver—Study the rules before entering your next national open. If it looks like you might get caught in the rain if you await your regular starting time, get an umbrella. That striped sweater might fade a little in a shower, but that's better than having your chances fade in the sun.

Tom Harmon—Grab a pro football offer as soon as it begins to sizzle. There's nothing colder than last year's hero, and while you're still hot stuff you can get more chips for three or four months' work than you could in three or four years doing something else.

Dodger Fans—Keep your fingers crossed. A guy named Yawkey has been trying to buy a pennant for years and hasn't even been able to rent one yet. You never can be sure you will get enough runs for your money.

SYMPATHY

Gabby Hartnett—It's tough to get the boot after about 20 years at the same old star. There was a great deal wrong with the Cubs, much of it due to great deals which couldn't have been all your fault.

Pat Comiskey—We've all had air covets tumble about our ears. We all built you up too fast, not giving the foundation a chance to harden. You still have years on your side, so keep your chin up—but not out.

Duff McCullough Jr.—You must have suffered plenty in taking that 11 and 9 drubbing in the national amateur finals. Everyone has days when his best isn't good enough and Lady Luck is no lady.

Oscar Vitt—Lots of people have been nipped when their backs were turned by their pets. Could those names on that petition be called "Indian signs"?

UNDERSTANDING

Red Friesell—All those who never made a mistake will please meet in the nearest telephone booth. Don't let it get you down Alabama kid. He rated third in earned runs with 2.79 and second in winning percentage with 16 victories and five defeats. He started 23 games and worked in relief on 10 other occasions.

Rated on earned run averages, the 10 leading pitchers were: Walter 2.48; Claude Passeau, Chicago, 2.50; Sewell 2.79; Fitzsimmons 2.82; Jim Turner, Cincinnati, 2.88; Derringer 3.06; Manny Salvo, Boston, 3.07; Lon Warneke, St. Louis, 3.14; Dick Erickson, Boston, 3.17; and Hal Schumacher, New York, 3.25.

Rated on winning percentages they were: Fitzsimmons 16-4; Sewell 16-5; Walters 22-10; Turner 14-7; Gene Thompson, Cincinnati, 16-9; Derringer 16-12; Warneke 16-19; Bill McGee, St. Louis, 16-19; Passeau 20-13; and Clyde Shoun, St. Louis, 13-11.

What's this about Waite Hoyt, the old pitcher, replacing Red Barber as aircaster for the Dodger games next season?

Purple Cagers To Play Lanier, Albany on Trip

Boys' High Court Squad Short of Centers and Forwards.

Dwight Keith's note to Santa Claus was a plea for a forward, or forwards, and a center.

Boys' High opened their basketball season last week, but don't tell anybody. They lost to North Fulton by three points.

This was the same way Keith's team started last year and the Purple coach doesn't mind, so long as they come back as fast as his 1939-40 outfit, which wound up on the good side of the books.

While he was worrying over his problems Keith took time out and announced that the Purples would go on a two-game road trip January 3, playing Lanier that night at Macon and going to Albany for a game on the night of January 4.

NOT PREPARED.

"Although we are not ready to take on last year's G. I. A. A. champions," Keith admitted, "we hope Lanier and Albany will help prepare us for our Big Seven opener."

The Purples will meet Monroe's Aggies here January 7 in their first of 14 games in the league. The Purples face the year with three lettermen, Clint Castleberry, and Dixie Cohen, a pair of potshot guards, and Johnny Doyle, a forward with great scoring possibilities.

GREEN CENTERS.

Red Hughes and Bob Rayle, green as winter oats, but eager to learn, will handle the Purples' pivot post. Keith hopes one of them will blossom by midseason, but he may be too optimistic.

With the guards already sealed a group composed of David Hambrick, Jonas Mitchell, William Morris and Bobby Gaston are fighting to play opposite Doyle at forward. Mac McAfee, a footballer who went out with a broken collarbone last month, is recovering fast and has a chance to make the grade, Keith said. He showed promise as a reserve last season.

Keith, who did a great job with a gang of unknowns last year and the year before, has never been accused of being an optimist. This must be borne in mind when considering his prediction that the Purples and Columbus will battle for last place in the Big Seven.

Other coaches can't see them that far in the dunces. The Purples will take a holiday until Thursday, when morning practices will be resumed until they leave for Macon.

62-Year-Old Pro Shoots Yule Ace

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 24.—(P)—Sixty-two-year-old Pop Galligan, pro at the Capitol View Golf Club, received one Christmas present he did not expect yesterday—a hole in one on the 165-yard par three No. 7 hole.

It was Galligan's first ace in 50 years of playing the game.

A FEW BOWL STOCKINGS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 24.—The bowl boys are now looking into their Christmas stockings, using a crystal gazer. For I can tell you, directly and confidentially, they are all puzzled.

I have an idea that each one has a vague feeling that it is going to be tougher than anyone expected. This applies to all eight teams.

Stanford is now looking for a harder game than Stanford expected to draw against Nebraska. For Nebraska is coming along to prove that the Big Six or the Missouri Valley can play its share of football.

I know Texas A. & M. at first felt certain that it could take good care of Fordham. Late Texas A. & M. has heard more about the running and passing strength of the Fordham backfield, one of the best in the game. Texas A. & M., with all its big line and its powerful backfield drive, isn't quite so sure today.

Main Gamble

The Tennessee-Boston College game remains one of the main gambles.

Tennessee undoubtedly has more all-around line and backfield speed. Tennessee wasn't pressed all year. Volunteer supporters recall that a year ago Clemson defeated this same B. C. outfit at Dallas. I still say that the Boston College team I saw is a match for any team in the country—if it goes south in condition and then goes out to win.

This game is probably the toughest pick of the lot—and it should be one of the great games of the year. The talent—and the records—are certainly there.

The Georgetown—Mississippi State game is almost as tough for any rambling soothsayer.

Harry Mehre, of Mississippi, one of the best of all the calm and sane judges, rates Mississippi State at least one or two touchdowns better.

But after watching Georgetown against Boston College, I rate Georgetown on a par with Boston College, although Georgetown was beaten by a single point.

I know Georgetown has quite a football team, even with Kopic, crack end and star kicker, missing. I also know any team that can run over Ole Miss and Alabama as Mississippi State did must have plenty.

Predictions Tough

All this is what makes crystal gazing tough in these next bowl shows. So much depends on spirit and condition. And this is one feature to which the south usually responds. With few exceptions it takes these intersectional games as grim challenges, not as holiday jaunts. Southern teams, as a rule, are more keyed up—and they are also in better physical shape, due to climate aid.

In this respect Nebraska, Fordham, Boston College and Georgetown face certain climatic handicaps, due to snow, rain and cold. But each still has several days for conditioning.

The big trek is now under way. Nebraska is moving to Phoenix—Stanford to Pasadena. Fordham is shoving off for Dallas, Boston College is already in the vicinity of New Orleans. Georgetown is ready for the Miami special. In the meanwhile, Tennessee, Mississippi State, Texas A. & M. and Stanford have been able to work under sunnier skies.

But back in 1901 Yost's Michigan team left zero weather and the deep snows of Ann Arbor to beat Stanford 49 to 0, in a game which Michigan used 11 men in a 90-degree heat.

No Walkovers

In the next day or two these eight bowl platoons will be established in the four big bowl cities, putting on the so-called final touches.

I believe by now that each of these eight teams realizes the big job ahead against a high-class opponent, with no walkover in sight. Any coach or any team that might be thinking of an easy afternoon should be examined for serious head trouble. For the headache, next day, will be terrific.

In the meanwhile, the now famous Chicago Bears will display their 73-10-0 wares against the pick of the pro league at Los Angeles on Sunday.

They won't let the pros use the sacred turf of the 100,000 admission Los Angeles Municipal Stadium, even for charity, which is at least the greatest sporting joke of 1940.

But for all that, it still will be, or still should be, one of the best football games of a great football year.

Of course, all the backs they can show will be Sammy Baugh, Sid Luckman, Osmandski, McAfee, Johnny Drake, and some 10 or 12 others.

N.B.A. Names Six 175-Lb. Contenders

CHICAGO, Dec. 24.—(P)—President Joe Triner, of the National Boxing Association, asserting the N. B. A. "likes championships determined in the ring and not in conference rooms," took steps today to select a successor to Billy Conn, light-heavyweight titleholder, who is expected to vacate his championship.

Triner listed these six fighters as leading contenders for the 175-pound title: Melio Bettina, Beacon, N. Y.; Antoine Christoforidis, New York; Gus Lesnevich, New Jersey; Jimmy Webb, St. Louis, Mo.; Turkey Thompson, California, and Tommy Tucker, New York.

The N. B. A. president said he would wire those battlers tomorrow, asking their views on participation in an elimination tournament. Webb and Tucker are signed to meet in New York next February under the promotion of Mike Jacobs, who recently signed Brown to meet Joe Louis, heavyweight champion, next June.

Over 6 Millions Bet in W. Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 24.—(P)—Turf fans wagered a record total of $6,850,675 on the ponies racing around West Virginia tracks in 1940. Secretary Beverly Brown of the state racing commission reported today.

The bets, nearly 20 per cent above those for 1939 and higher than any in previous years, gave the state a revenue of $93,506.75 for the year, compared with $77,441.48 for 1939 and $74,532.81 for 1938.

New Tech High Coach To Help With 3 Sports

Former Hoke Smith Mentor To Take Over Cage Team.

By JOHN MARTIN

Christmas Eve brought another of a series of exclusive Constitution announcements on the Tech High coaching staff.

W. O. Cheney, genial principal, reaching down in the bottom of his stocking ahead of time, pulled out a gift from Hoke Smith Junior High in the form of all-round Swede Phillips, who will be a combination basketball, football and baseball coach.

Phillips has been named head basketball coach as successor to M. A. Olson, who took the place of Sidney Scarborough. Olson found too many conflicting duties to continue as head of the Smithie cagers.

Charlie Bowen, star football center and cager, will captain the Tech High basketball team this season. It was announced yesterday.

Bowen, a goal-getting guard, was elected captain by members of the 1940-1941 squad. The Smithies will open their Big Seven season January 10 against Canton.

Phillips will take over the Smithies during Christmas holidays and will assist with basketball as well as handle the Tech High backfield next season. He is a graduate of Stetson and coached at Monticello, Fla., before coming to Tech High. He is highly recommended and fully equipped to carry the load as an assistant to Allen Shi, who will succeed Scarborough as head football coach. Scarborough will leave the first of January for a year of service in the army.

Cheney announced that S. P. Capps, cross-country coach, would take over the track coaching post left by Frank Kopf, who, after 20 years as head man, leaves for a major's post in the National Guard. Coach Tom L. Alexander likewise has been claimed by National Guard duty.

Departure of Scarborough, Kopf and Alexander for army service and the inability of Olson to coach off basketball for the time being, at least, leaves only Hub Dows and Shi as veteran coaching holdovers. And Shi has been there only a season.

Two Vols Hurt But Both Due To Start Game

Van Thompson and Bill Luttrell Injured in Scrimmage.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 24.—(P)—The old football bugaboo—the injury jinx—crept into the camp of the Tennessee Volunteers today as they plunged into full-scale scrimmage in preparation for the New Year's Day Sugar Bowl contest with the Boston College Eagles.

And this Christmas Eve was none too cheerful for Major Bob Neyland after Tailback Van Thompson pulled a leg muscle and Tackle Bill Luttrell suffered a Charley Horse in his left thigh.

Trainer Mickey O'Brien said Thompson would be laid up for four or five days while the seriousness of Luttrell's injury could not be determined at once. Both players, however, was expected to be ready to play in the game.

Buist Warren, Tennessee's passing ace, was moved up to the starting tailback spot to replace Thompson, and Hodges West went in at tackle in place of Luttrell.

"These injuries will hamper Thompson and Luttrell in getting in condition for the game," Neyland said. "The timing of our plays is off badly and we've got a lot of work ahead of us. These injuries won't help either."

The day's two practice sessions brought alternate frowns and smiles to the faces of the Tennessee coaches, who will shepherd a squad of 35 players aboard a special train tomorrow for an overnight trip to Biloxi, Miss., near New Orleans.

Frequent fumbles and lack of co-ordination in team play were faults obvious to sideline spectators and the famed Tennessee past defense looked none too good against the Boston College aerial attack.

On the bright side, however, were the line play of Substitute Fullback Fred Newman, and the accurate passing of Buist Warren.

The squad will leave here at 1:35 p. m. tomorrow after a Christmas dinner, and will arrive in Biloxi at 5:35 Thursday from where the players will be taken to near-by Edgewood Park to remain until the day of the game.

TAFT WRIGHT SIGNS.

CHICAGO, Dec. 24.—(P)—The signed contracts of Outfielder Taft Wright and Rookie Dave Short arrived today at the offices of the Chicago White Sox.

The battle between Jockeys Earl Dew and Walter Lee Taylor for the 1940 riding supremacy of the nation's race tracks really is something. With seven days of racing left, Dew's advantage is only 281 to 176.

Johnny Allen Sold to Browns

Tribe Pitcher Costs St. Louis $20,000, Belief

Temperamental Hurler 4th Veteran To Join Club for 1941.

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 24.—(P)—Purchase of Johnny Allen from the Cleveland Indians was announced tonight by the Browns in a deal bringing the fourth veteran pitcher acquired by the team since the close of the season.

ALLEN.

Allen, 35-year-old right-hander with a major league record of 117 victories and 53 defeats, was obtained in a straight cash transaction at a reported outlay of $20,000.

The temperamental pitcher came up with the New York Yankees in 1932 and celebrated his first year by winning 17 games and losing only four to lead all American League pitchers in percentage with a mark of .810.

The Yanks traded him to Cleveland in 1936 and the following season Allen had his best year. He led all major league pitchers with a percentage of .938, winning 15 games, all in a row, and losing only one, a defeat suffered on the last day of the season.

In 1938, he won 17 consecutive victories. Hampered by injuries, Allen won 9 games while losing 8 last season.

The Browns, planning cash on the line in an effort to build a dependable pitching staff, recently purchased George Caster from the Philadelphia Athletics and Denny Galehouse and Fritz Ostermuller from the Boston Red Sox.

Ben Chapman Traded For Joe Kraskauskas.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 24.—(P)—The Cleveland Indians announced tonight the acquisition of Pitcher Joe Kraskauskas from the Washington Senators in exchange for Outfielder Ben Chapman.

Chapman, 32, a regular outfielder last season, was obtained from Boston two years ago in a trade for Denny Galehouse. He failed to hit .300 either season, having batted .286 last year. He started in the majors with the New York Yankees in 1929 and later played with the club to which he was traded today.

Kraskauskas, 24-year-old left-hander, was regarded two years ago as one of the most promising young pitchers in the game, but won only one game and lost six for Washington last season.

Gene Goodreault To Be Ready Jan. 1

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss., Dec. 24.—(UP)—A Christmas present for Boston College fans came tonight in Coach Frank Leahy's announcement that Gene Goodreault would be ready for the Sugar Bowl game against Tennessee.

"That's the best news of the day," Leahy said after watching the All-American Eagle run the 100 with no difficulty.

Goodreault, who was hurt in the Georgetown game, continued to wear a brace on his bad knee.

"SOPH OF THE YEAR"—Jim Jurkovich, California's great right halfback, termed by Francis Wallace the sophomore player of the year, may see action against Tech here Saturday when the Golden Bears battle Georgia Tech at Grant Field. Jurkovich was injured in the Stanford game. However, a specially outfitted head gear has been designed for him, and it is expected that he will display his prowess before Atlanta fans Saturday.

Host Teams Favorites In Big Bowl Contests

By GEORGE KIRKSEY.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—(UP)—The chances of the four host teams to sweep the major bowl games New Year's Day look good to me. That is to say, I believe Stanford will beat Nebraska, Texas A. & M. will beat Fordham, Tennessee will beat Boston College and Mississippi State will beat Georgetown.

Those four teams have been installed as favorites and rightly so. The odds making Stanford, Texas A. & M., Tennessee and Mississippi State all 2-1 favorites in round figures, however, seem to be a little out of line. The best shortfender in the group is, in my opinion, Nebraska.

T-FORMATION BUNK.

Stanford's "T-formation, man-in-motion" offense, isn't going to frighten and daze the Cornhuskers as it did last season. Why? Well, principally because two of Major Biff Jones' assistants, Link Lyman and Glenn Pressnell, know the "T-formation" and its ramifications as well as anybody in the country.

Lyman played with the Chicago Bears for years until he retired to become assistant to D. X. Bible, then Nebraska head coach. He was one of the all-time great tacklers of pro football, and there are few tricks about the "quick opening play," spearhead of the "T-formation" ground attack, unknown to Link.

Pressnell played with Portsmouth and Detroit for seven years and engaged in many titanic battles with the Bears, and knows all the defensive assignments for covering the man in motion, how to smother the passer sneaking backward from underneath the center's legs and other vital information. If Nebraska has the manpower, then the Cornhuskers can conceivably upset Stanford's miracle boys. However, until Clark Shagnessy's spell has been broken, the Cornhuskers must continue to ride with the Fido Alto Indians.

COTTON SPECTACULAR.

The most spectacular game should be the Cotton Bowl affair at Dallas or the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans. If the field is dry and the sun is smiling, then Texas A. & M. and Fordham should put on a thriller to end all thrillers in the Cotton Bowl. There is little doubt but that the Rams are going to Dallas to outpace the Aggies in their own backyard. In Steve Filippowicz, Fordham sophomore fullback, the easterners have a lad who can chuck the pigskin, but if it comes down to a passing duel I'll take A. & M.

Then there's a little matter of John Kimbrough, the Aggie's ramboned whip-cracker. Fordham won't stop him any better than Tulane did in the Sugar Bowl last year.

It's strange to easterners to have Tennessee rated a favorite over Boston College. At least one erudite New York scribe considers B. C. the best college team he's ever seen in action. But below the Mason and Dixon line there is a unanimity of opinion that Tennessee has one of the great southern eleven of all time.

VOLS' SOFT SCHEDULE.

Tennessee's record can easily fool one from another section. Major Bob Neyland's practice of playing as many soft touches as he can and frequently holding the score down against an inferior opponent is vastly misleading to a stat pundit. Major Neyland believes in pouring it on only when he's playing a major opponent. And around Knoxville they are saying that the good major wants to atone for last New Year's Rose

Nine of Eagles' Eleven Starters Will Graduate

B. C. To Go 'All Out' in Last Contest for Senior Squad January 1.

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss., Dec. 24.—(P)—It's a safe bet Boston College will go "all out" against Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl January 1; for it will be the last chance for most of the fiercest Eagles to do some clawing for their Alma Mater.

The short semi-tropical twilight settling over New Orleans New Year's Day will signify careers' end for nine of the New Englanders' eleven probable starters; and consequently the beginning of an expected lean year or two on the gridiron for the Newton school.

From end to end, the entire first line will graduate, both All-American Chet Gladchuk and Walt Dubinski, who gave him a fight for the job all season, will be missing at center. All the first, second and fourth string guards are leaving.

Henry Woronick, who sometimes starts at left end in place of Al Lukachik, is the only quasi-regular returning among the forwards, the great Gene Goodreault is forsaking the other end.

Charlie O'Rourke, the Eagles' best runner, passer and kicker, and Quarterback Henry Toczykowski will don cap and gown come June. The sole usual starters returning are Halfback Frank Maznicki, a junior, and Sophomore Fullback Mike Holovak. For the rest, it's glory now or never in the college game.

Coach Frank Leahy, pushing his men through strenuous training sessions here, has little time to think of next fall; for he declares, "We're meeting the best team in the country on January 1."

Huskers 'Crusaders' For Big Six.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 24.—(P)—Stanford University football supporters might just as well get it fixed firmly in their minds that their team will run into one of those "crusading" machines in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day. Past history tells many a rousing story about invading eleven in this frame of mind.

These teams from far places generally are dynamite. In 1926 a mighty Washington team rolled into Pasadena to carry the banners of the Pacific Coast Conference into play. The Huskers invited the University of Alabama. For some reason, the folks out here didn't have much respect for southern football, and Alabama, as far as they knew, was just another state.

The boys from Alabama, mindful that they were the first team from the deep south ever invited to the Rose Bowl, won 20-19 in one of the most exciting games in the annals of the Tournament of Roses series. Pooley Hubert and Johnny Mack Brown exploded in the second half.

There have been other examples of the deep south ever invited to the Rose Bowl, against this same unlucky Washington in 1937, Columbia over Stanford in 1934, Georgia Tech in 1929. But Alabama of 1926 was the first real "crusade."

From all accounts Nebraska's Cornhuskers come west with this identical variety of psychology. It's their first invitation to the Bowl; the first for a Big Six outfit. The state of Nebraska raises and plays its own boys. It's a state cause. The Huskers don't intend to let their state down.

Steel Bowl Game Only Title Clash

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 24.—Morris Brown College, of Atlanta, and Wilberforce University, of Xenia, Ohio, will clash in the national Negro championship game, the only New Year's bowl game of the day that will have a title at stake.

The Morris Brown-Wilberforce game is a natural. It pits two All-Americans, Big Train John Moody, of Morris Brown, and William Schnebly, of Wilberforce, together.

The Steel Bowl game gets under way at 2 o'clock and special trains will come here from Atlanta, Montgomery, Xenia, Ohio, and other spots. A crowd of around 15,000 is expected by the Steel Bowl committee, which intends to make the game an annual event.

STRING RUNNING OUT.

In successive years Tennessee football teams have been chosen for the Orange, Rose and Sugar Bowls; pretty soon there'll be nothing left in the bowl line for the Vols but the bowling alleys.

Bowl loss by whaling the daylight out of B. C. Make no mistake about it. This Tennessee outfit is classy. If Boston College has an idea that it's going to New Orleans for a picnic, the boys had better forget all about it now. Tennessee is loaded for bear.

Mississippi State is a "little Tennessee," using the same style of play as the Volunteers. Coach Allyn McKee is a disciple of Major Neyland, and those who've seen the Maroons in action say he has done his work well. When a state player blocks, he blocks for keeps just like the Tennessee boys. Georgetown has lost only one game in three years; and that to Boston College by only one point. But Mississippi State is likely to add another black mark to the Hoyas' record.

'If We Are All Here in 1941'—Roosevelt

Somber Remarks Made as He Lights Capital's Christmas Tree.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—(P)—President Roosevelt tonight made another of the somber "if" remarks which have caught so much attention.

Lighting the capital's Christmas tree outside the White House grounds, he said he thought it would be more "homey" if next year's ceremony were held inside the grounds. He said he would make that change, and deliver his address from the White House porch on Christmas Eve, 1941, "if we are all here."

On December 14, the President told patients of the Warm Springs Foundation in Georgia that he would be back to spend two weeks with them next March "if the world survives."

In the spring of 1939, after a visit to the foundation, he had told spectators gathered at his train at Warm Springs that he would "be back in the fall if we don't have a war."

Atlantan Found Dead on Street Of Stab Wounds

Police Mystified, Unable To Establish Motive for Slaying.

R. L. Moore, of 3 Howell drive, S. W., an employee of the A. C. Miller Body Company, was found stabbed to death in the gutter at the intersection of Pryor and Alabama streets at 8:10 o'clock last night.

Police reported Moore had been stabbed three times in the left chest.

The body was discovered by several passersby, who summoned Supernumerary Patrolman A. B. Perkins. Police were unable to establish a motive for the killing.

at the CITY HALL

Robert Speer, bacteriologist of the city health department, yesterday was back at his office after a three-month public health course at the University of North Carolina.

Roy Deal, who has a long record of convictions from the recorder's court for drunkenness and who until yesterday was serving his latest stretch, was pardoned by Mayor Hartsfield. The mayor's action followed a promise that Deal would leave the city and not return.

Don Harris, employee of the city waterworks department, will spend Christmas in bed. He is suffering from an attack of influenza and is at his home, 969 Lee street, S. W.

Mayor Hartsfield yesterday was presented a combination Christmas and going away present by members of the police department. The mayor's term ends January 6. A committee headed by Police Chief Hornsby and Lieutenant C. D. Hardman visited the executive offices to formally present the Christmas present, which served the dual purpose.

Friends of Luke S. Arnold, recorder-elect of the traffic division of the recorder's court, yesterday were planning their own celebration when Arnold succeeds John L. Cone January 6. A committee headed by Yantis Mitchell, attorney, was completing arrangements.

AROUND Atlanta

Bank clearings yesterday totaled $11,600,000 as compared with $12,500,000 a year ago, the Atlanta Clearing House Association announced.

Vota Vita Sunday school class of the Carey Park Baptist church will meet at 10 o'clock this morning with Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Holland.

Glazner Memorial Primitive Baptist church will hold special Christmas services this morning, as previously announced.

Colgate Ends Year With $900 Surplus

HAMILTON, N. Y., Dec. 21.—(P)—Colgate University, which for 15 years before Dr. George Barton Cutten became its president piled up an aggregate deficit of more than $712,000, has recorded its 16th straight year with a surplus.

Treasurer John W. S. Littlefield, making public the university's financial report for the first time in history, announced today that Colgate's surplus for the fiscal year ending August 24 was $900.23.

He said the university income for the year was $785,424.53, a jump of nearly $17,000 over 1939 despite the fact that endowment income dropped $7,000 from last year's $95,340.48.

Yuletide Macabre: Shanghai Story Anno Domini 1940

SHANGHAI, Dec. 24.—(P)—Christmas Eve in Shanghai... A Chinese urchin opens the door of a limousine, pressing his wasted body against the handle...

The white man, loaded to the chin with champagne bottles, thrusts out a 10-dollar bill (about 70 cents). The child looks at the note with hungry eyes; he can't take it; he has no arms. The foreigner slips it inside his ragged shirt.

They turned girls cart through the crowds... Selling button-nieres... Getting 10, 20 even 100 Shanghai dollars. And in an alley three Chinese are beating up a coolie because he couldn't pay two miserable coppers for his bowl of rice. He dies on the wet flagging, black blood gushing from his mouth. Christmas Eve... And tomorrow the Shanghai public benevolent cemetery will find more than 100 corpses in the street, for there are always at least 100 and sometimes more who die from cold and hunger or both; and more than half will be small ones—children and even babies.

White men in white ties and white men in rags; Chinese in broad-silk and Chinese in gunny-sacking. The piercing wail of the beggars sounds mournfully through the laughter of the crowds.

At a barricade a soldier wraps red and green bunting on the spikes and barbed wire.

News Vendors White's Stand Hold Annual Wins Approval Yule Dinner Of Lindbergh

More Than 300 Eat, See Floor Show, Receive Gifts.

The boys who sell you your morning and afternoon newspapers, 364 days a year, took time off last night and had their own Christmas dinner at the Henry Grady hotel.

It's an annual occasion, one of the few times the news vendors—old and young—have to celebrate and they turned out en masse for the big party. More than 300 of them showed up to eat turkey, see a floor show, and receive a Christmas present.

At another dinner, 50 Negro boys who take to the streets faithfully, rain or shine, to sell their papers, were honor guests.

The annual party is made possible through the generosity of Atlanta's business and professional men.

Second Quake Shakes Area In Northeast

Geologist Predicts Lull From Tremors for Section.

BOSTON, Dec. 24.—(P)—For the second time in five days, startling earth tremors today shook the densely populated northeast from Pennsylvania to Canada and brought from a Harvard geologist the opinion that this section might now enjoy a lull from earthquakes.

In much the same manner as last Friday's tremor, this second quake was felt in populous New York and Pennsylvania, throughout New England and northward into Quebec.

Certainly more persons were shaken by the tremors than last Friday, for today's came during the waking hours at about 8:45 a. m.

Again there were panicky thousands, but there were no casualties and damage for the most part was negligible.

Perhaps the most costly damage was in Chicopee, Mass., where a 20-inch water main was ruptured, and at the Peabody Museum in Salem, Mass., where a rare tile gargoyle toppled from a shelf and broke.

British Ready To Open Final Bardia Attack

Italian Divisions Face Water Shortage in Besieged Base.

CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 24.—(P)—British forces besieging the key Italian base of Bardia indicated today they were almost ready for a final, full-fledged attack on that heavily fortified port which, for eight days, has endured a rain of British shells and bombs and the increasing threat of empty water tanks.

While the British brought up reinforcements around Bardia and continued the artillery pounding of defenses the two Italian divisions locked in Bardia's lines were reported facing a critical water shortage.

The official word on the progress of the British was a brief headquarters report that "the concentration of our troops and artillery preparation in the Bardia area are proceeding."

Other African fronts were unchanged, the command said.

147 Cars Destroyed By Six-Alarm Fire

BALTIMORE, Dec. 24.—(P)—A six-alarm fire destroyed 147 new and used cars in an automobile salesroom and repair shop today, and drove 11 families into the street when it spread to adjoining buildings.

Violent Explosion Kills Four in Italian Factory

MILAN, Italy, Dec. 24.—(P)—A violent explosion, of a nature not immediately explained, destroyed today a small Milan factory housing combustibles and lubricants. Four men were killed and six persons were injured.

King Haakon, Wilhelmina Greet Peoples

'We Can Face Future With Growing Hope,' Queen Says.

LONDON, Dec. 24.—(P)—Two royal ex-patriates, Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands and King Haakon of Norway, sent messages of hope and sympathy tonight to the people of their German-occupied lands.

"We can now face the future with growing hope and confidence," Queen Wilhelmina told the Dutch. "I pray the Lord that in spite of everything which this year might make it so very difficult for you to celebrate the sacred day in the true spirit of Christmas, it will nevertheless be a real Christmas for you in the most profound sense."

Haakon, talking of his "great sorrow" at being unable to celebrate Christmas at home, said: "What is most painful for me is the unarmed civil war now going on in Norway." He added: "Let Christmas this year more than ever before be a family feast to strengthen family ties and unity between all Norwegians and give further impetus to the liberation of our country."

Rental Costs In Low Group Has Increase

Rates in Upper Bracket Decline During Same Period.

"And the rich get richer and the poor get poorer." Or, to phrase it another way, those who have are paying less for their homes, and those who have not are paying more.

According to the Bureau of Labor, rental costs in the low bracket—$30 a month or less—have shown an increase in Atlanta of 1.9 per cent in the past three years. At the same time, rents in the $50 or more bracket dropped 3.3 per cent, the report showed.

The figures were released yesterday in Washington.

Dalton High's Gym Destroyed by Fire

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. DALTON, Ga., Dec. 24.—The Dalton High school gymnasium, a brick veneer structure, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin last night. The loss was estimated at $10,000.

All Dalton High school athletic equipment, including football uniforms for about 40 players and girls' basketball teams, were destroyed. Officials said that the fire probably would make it necessary to cancel Dalton High's basketball games scheduled for the coming season.

The gymnasium, built about 10 years ago, was located on the high school campus. It was remodeled in 1939 and was one of the best equipped in northwest Georgia. School officials said the loss was partially covered by insurance.

Muggy Weather Seen for Yule

"Twas a misty, moisty morning, when cloudy was the weather." Atlanta's Yuletide weather seemed drawn right out of the old nursery rhyme, according to Forecaster George F. Minding's prediction yesterday, in which all signs pointed to a warm and muggy Christmas Day with occasional light showers.

There also will be showers Thursday, possibly, before slightly lower temperature brings clear skies and bright sun for the weekend. The same forecast, holds, in general, for the two Carolinas and Florida as well, the long-range prediction indicates.

Ex-Mayor of Jefferson, James E. Randolph, Dies

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. JEFFERSON, Ga., Dec. 24.—Rites for James E. Randolph, 66, former mayor of Jefferson, who died in an Atlanta hospital today, will be held in the Methodist church here at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The Rev. A. B. Elizer officiating. Interment will be in a local cemetery.

Mr. Randolph was chairman of the Jackson county Democratic executive committee. He was a steward in the Methodist church, and was a Mason and a Rotarian. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Mary Towns Randolph; one son, Donald Randolph, Greenville, S. C.; a daughter, Miss Dorothy Randolph, of Columbus; two sisters, Mrs. Kate Jackson, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Effie Flanigan, of Jeffersonville, and a grandson, Donald Randolph Jr.

Your table setting is a most important part of your holiday dinner. Whether your table is to be informal or formal, set it in a festive but "just right" manner. The center decorations will differ, but if you select flowers, here is a pretty suggestion. Yellow tulips, delphinium and daisies create an interesting center for this gay table. The cloth is a perfect blend, and dishes, silverware and glassware make this a table delightful to guests.

Ginger, as Kitty Foyle, Gives Grade A Performance

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 23.—Cary Grant is spending Christmas with Barbara Hutton . . . Lew Ayres is a disciple of Garbo's boy friend, Doc Hauser. He is on a strict Hauser vegetable diet; says he hopes to obtain spiritual benefit from it. I wish him luck . . . George Brent's option was taken up last week at Warner's. "Just to make me feel worse," says George. "They informed me that I have another 104 weeks to go. If they'd said two years, it wouldn't have seemed so much." Most Hollywoodites scream with joy when the option is renewed. But not Brent.

Laurence Olivier and Vivien Leigh have accepted tickets for the preview of their picture, "Lady Hamilton," in London . . . Ginger Rogers is such a good actress in "Kitty Foyle" that I, for one, forgive her for her recent rudeness to members of the press. She can be as haughty as she likes—as long as she gives those grade A performances on the screen . . . Lana Turner's studio employs someone to make sure she is in bed by 9:30 every evening. She and Tony Martin, by the way, did their Christmas shopping together. But all the same, I'll eat my dining-room furniture if Lana marries Tony when she is legally free.

Alice Faye, when you interview her, looks at you as though you had a dagger behind your back. I've seen a lot of movie people change since I came here, but few as much as Alice. She used to be a friendly gal . . . There are dark rumors in town that the Olivia de Havilland rush-back to Hollywood via plane for an appendectomy that didn't come off, was engineered in the fertile brain of a press agent. To give substance to the stories are the facts that 20 photographers were at the airport to meet her, that Joan Fontaine and Brian Aherne were asked (by Warners) to be there at 3 a. m. It was 5 a. m. before the plane arrived. And above all, that no appendectomy was performed, and she left the hospital the day after she came back. If I'm overly suspicious, I apologize, Olivia.

MY DAY: Getting Ready For Christmas

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON (Monday).—I left New York city this morning and took the 9:50 plane to Washington. The sky was blue and the air was crisp, and gave me a real feeling that winter was with us and we might hope either for snow or skating by Christmas Day.

Here I found Christmas packages everywhere and an air of great preparation. The house has been decorated and the lights are in the little trees on the portico, so we look gay at night. Even the President changed his schedule and had not yet left the White House, so I had a glimpse of him before he went over to the executive office. His shadow, the little black Scottie, came into my sitting room with him.

I was glad to see the dog back, for he had spent two days before I left at the vets with the usual puppy difficulties. He has returned with a diet. The President, who would hardly be aware of the fact that anybody else in the household was on a diet, spoke to me at once, so that there would be no mistake about "Fala's" food.

I saw the housekeeper and all the rooms are assigned for Christmas and all the meals are planned. Mrs. Helm and I had a last going over of the social functions, because tomorrow I shall be too busy to look at lists of any kind, and she will not have an opportunity until after Christmas. Then I started on my mail, which I don't think I shall finish for a long, long time.

I expect by that time that my mother-in-law and sister-in-law will arrive. It is a long time since I have seen them both, so there will be a real sense of excitement about our reunion. A little bit later, Ethel and little Franklin III will arrive and some time this afternoon, I hope, Mr. Harry Hopkins and Diana will appear.

I have already received so many Christmas cards that I want to say a word of thanks today. It is very warming to the heart to find that people think of you at Christmas time, and that they so often think of you as a friend. Some of our neighbors near our little apartment house in New York city sent me cards as a neighborly gesture.

From all around us at Hyde Park, cards have come pouring in, as well as from every nook and corner in the United States and from Europe and the Far East. Perhaps the most touching cards have been those with messages written on them in which people say that, though in their particular homes life seems dark and uncertain, the fact that the President is in the White House gives them hope for their future.

Woman's Quiz

Q. What is the most comfortable angle for the seat of a chair?
A. A downward slant from front to back of about 3-8 of an inch is most comfortable for the average person.

Q. Please give me a recipe for French dressing.

A. Mix 1/4 teaspoon of salt, 1 teaspoon of sugar and 1-4 teaspoon of paprika together. Add 1-4 cup of vinegar and 1/2 cup of oil. Shake the mixture in a closed glass jar or beat it with an egg beater. If made sometime in advance, shake it thoroughly just before using. Many persons omit the sugar and reduce the amount of vinegar one-half.

Q. Please give me a recipe for pralines.

A. The ingredients are 1 7-8 cups powdered sugar, 1 cup maple syrup, 2 cups pecan meats cut in pieces, and 1/2 cup cream. Boil the first three ingredients until when tried in water, they will form a soft ball. Remove from fire and beat until creamy; add nuts and drop from tip of spoon in small piles on buttered paper.

Q. How may I remove rust from a tile floor?

A. Use a mixture of lemon juice and water.

A. At least eight in his hand alone.

Q. What is the ideal temperature for most house plants?

Many Would Desire Aids For Beauty

By Ida Jean Kain.

If you had a windfall of Christmas money that couldn't be spent except extravagantly on yourself, what would you buy with it? The thing dearest to your heart would probably be a present no one would dream of giving you.

Women will spend money on the children, the head of the house and the house, but something they want for years will never even be mentioned because it is considered sheer extravagance and vanity. That's why many of them get into a rut about their looks—they are too unselfish.

Perhaps your secret longing is for some minor, material luxury, like a full-length mirror. The builders may not have been installing them in houses when you were married and you may have wished for one ever since.

Or your idea of luxury may be a full line of cosmetics. Then treat yourself to the works for once in your life. Start off right by going to a cosmetician who really knows her business. Have her suggest the creams that are best for your skin, and help you to select the exact shades of powder and rouge most complimentary to your coloring, and let her show you how to apply your make-up with a professional touch. While you are about it, have your hair restyled.

Your gift to yourself might be something you wouldn't want to tell anyone about—like having a mole taken off, or electrolysis to remove superfluous hair, or it might be as revolutionary as having a new nose.

Whenever I see a girl with a conspicuous mole, I have a strong urge to tell her that for a few dollars she can have that blemish completely removed.

And fuzzi, or perhaps a definite mustache on the upper lip, is something else no woman has to put up with. To date, it can't be prevented but it can be eradicated. There are several effective ways of dealing with this problem. A bleach formula will usually suffice for a light fuzzi. The beauticians have chemical depilatories which remove the hair. Then, of course, there is electrolysis. The fee for electrolysis is not exorbitant. For this treatment, however, you should go to an expert—one recommended by your doctor. The needle is perfectly safe in skilled hands, but it's nothing to be trifled with.

Chances are the nose nature gave you is all right, works fine and looks lovely. And if you are a happily married woman whose husband fell in love with you the way you are, I'm not trying to put ideas into your head. But a single girl who is utterly unhappy about this feature should do something about it. Here's a case in point: A girl who would have been quite pretty, except for a pronounced hook on her nose, was so miserable about it that she never had any fun. So she skipped around for a year until she had saved up enough money to have her nose fixed. Now she has the cutest little nose you ever saw and the change in her life is remarkable! She just isn't the same person.

It may be that the thing you want most is not very expensive. You may think it is—because you want it! It might be as trivial as using bath salts, or dress-up glasses to wear when you go out in the evening. Or perfume—the expensive kind. Or one absolutely knock-out evening gown. Or you might have a yearning to do some of the new dances. Then make your present a set of dance lessons.

This list may not include any of the things that you long for. But if there is something special and it would make you a happier person, you owe it to yourself. Make it your own post-Christmas gift!

The chairman has something to say. For instance, Mrs. G. M. writes that she invested a dime and a stamped envelope bearing her address, received a copy of my booklet, "Blood and Health," prepared the home-made iron tonic as described, and now she and her daughter are on their second pint. "We certainly benefit from

Won't you be my Santa Claus? Which may be mixing holiday greetings a trifle, but it's the proper question to put when Santa is as cute as Mary Martin, who is currently starred in Paramount's "Love Thy Neighbor."

Blood Test Shows Anemic Condition

By Dr. William Brady.

A pale complexion is not always an indication of anemia. The only way to determine whether a patient is anemic is by examination of the blood—a count of the number of red corpuscles and measurement of the strength of hemoglobin. These facts are cited in a communication received from the chairman of a joint committee on professional relations of the medical society and the pharmaceutical association.

It is undignified and dangerous to advise people, as I do, that an ounce of iron and ammonium citrate scales dissolved in four ounces of water, makes a blood "tonic" which in my opinion is second to none, the chairman tells me.

Well, I never had much dignity anyway. Yet's leave that to the jury. The practice is dangerous, the chairman says, because people reading my column might be influenced to prepare the medicine and take it for anemia, which condition they might not have at all.

Some doctors who are active in it," she reports. "We both have a better color."

Apparently Mrs. M. and her daughter assumed they were anemic because they were pale. Maybe they were anemic. All I know is that a good many pale people are not anemic, at any rate not more anemic than the general run of folk who live indoors most of the time. Another thing I know is that whether Mrs. M. and her daughter were anemic or not, the home-made iron tonic will do them no harm.

My health column has been published in the community whence comes this criticism from the joint committee of the medical society and pharmaceutical association for many, many years. The joint committee has never seen anything in my column of which they approve to my knowledge.

Some druggists who are active in the pharmaceutical organization have pretty fancy and expensive iron nostrums they like to sell.

Some doctors who are active in it in concentrated form.

the medical society like to give patients "shots" of fancy and expensive iron preparations.

I confess I have never taken any of this home-made iron tonic myself—I did taste of it once and I thought it was pretty bad. But if I believed I needed more iron than I get from food I'd beat up a mess of this simple medicine and take it.

Prematurely Gray Hair.

We are experimenting with your Iodin Ration in our family and after some nine months of it we think it is checking the graying of hair, but will report further after a longer period. Meanwhile, it certainly makes us feel more alive and fit. (E. H. M.)

Answer—Glad to send on request "Instructions for Taking an Iodin Ration"—inclose stamped envelope bearing your address. For preventing hair from turning gray prematurely, be sure to get an adequate daily ration of vitamin B complex, too—say by eating three or four ounces of fresh wheat germ daily, or by taking it in concentrated form.

Miss Jean Pentecost Makes Formal Bow At Brilliant Supper-Dance at Driving Club

Santa Claus in person attended the brilliant supper-dance at which Dr. and Mrs. Mark Pentecost introduced to Atlanta society their lovely debutante daughter, Miss Jean Pentecost, at one of the most elaborate parties of the season which featured the Christmas Eve social calendar. St. Nicholas appeared just before midnight and claimed the honor guest as his first dancing partner, thus creating a stir of excitement as the magic hour approached.

The gay Yuletide motif was featured in the decorations throughout the club, which were expressed in numerous Christmas trees and strung with hundreds of red and white striped candy canes. The red and white color combination was repeated in the graceful arrangements of red roses, white snapdragons, and white gladioli which beautified the ballroom, the foyer and the reception room. Each corner of the ballroom was adorned with a tree hung with the candy canes, and before the fireplace at the far end of the room was a tall tree which reached to the ceiling and glistened with silver, tinsel, and crystal ornaments. Similar trees strung with candy canes guarded the steps leading to the ballroom.

Garlands of smilax festooned the ceiling in the foyer, where crimson poinsettias were massed in effective arrangement. The punch bowls were wreathed with fringes of red and white roses and snapdragons, and the coffee tables featured similar flowers.

Dr. and Mrs. Pentecost and Miss Pentecost received their guests standing at the right of the ballroom entrance against a background of palms and ferns, which was flanked by pedestals topped with long-stemmed white gladioli and snapdragons. On either side of the backdrop of foliage were grouped the numerous gift bouquets and baskets of flowers which attested the popularity of the debutante.

Miss Pentecost chose for her formal presentation a bouffant gown of white silk net, the full skirt and brief puffed sleeves formed of graduated groups of narrow double ruffles. The heart-shaped neckline and the smart low waistline were outlined with tiny silver flowers centered with small silver beads.

Completing the exquisite ensemble was an old-fashioned bouquet encased in a lace paper holder and formed of reddish purple orchids, Parma violets, and pink and white sweetpeas. The bouquet was showered with valley lilies and stephanotis, and the debutante wore a single white orchid in her brown hair.

Mrs. Pentecost received her guests wearing a modish costume of frost blue crepe beaded in jewel tones around the square neckline and the waistline. Her flowers were a shoulder spray of purple orchids. Miss Anne Pentecost, younger sister of the honor guest, wore a youthful gown of lustrous white satin and her flowers were pale pink orchids.

Mrs. Charles D. Hurt Sr., grandmother of the debutante, was crowned in black crepe embroidered in jet beads and offset by a cluster of white orchids.

Supper was served at midnight from exquisitely appointed buffet tables which repeated the red and white motif in the decorations. The tables were centered with oblong plateaux of deep red roses, white snapdragons, and white gladioli, which were flanked by massive silver candelabra holding tall white burning tapers. Garlands of smilax caught at intervals with clusters of white bouvardi former a tracery over the white satin damask cloths.

Assisting in entertaining the 600 guests were Miss Frances Hurt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Hurt, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Hurt, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hurt, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Henz Jr., Dr. and Mrs. L. C. Fischer, Mrs. George N. Hurt, of Eufaula, Ala.; Mrs. James E. Carlton, Mrs. Herman Evans, Mrs. Paul H. Randall, Mr. and Mrs. Rice Nickels, Mr. and Mrs. Mercer Lee, of Kenilworth, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnson, of Clinton, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Kenyon, of Gainesville; Mr. and Mrs. Austin Emerson, Dr. and Mrs. Cosby Swanson and Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Gray.

A group of attractive visiting belles attending the party were Miss Edith Anne Teasley, of Toccoa; Miss Catherine Webb, of Tifton; Misses Martha Whitaker and LaGrange Trussell, of Athens; Misses Hazel Hardin and Anne Elizabeth Newton, of Forsyth; Miss Cornelia Callaway, of Jacksonville, and Miss Dottie Anne Blair, of Fort Smith, Ark.

P. E. O. Chapter Holds Luncheon.

P. E. O. Chapter "B" held its annual Christmas luncheon for members and guests recently. The meeting was held following the luncheon, after which Mrs. P. J. Reidelberger spoke on the subject of "What Is P. E. O.?" Mrs. A. T. Hartford, past president of the chapter, read an appropriate Christmas story.

Mrs. Philip Widenhouse, wife of the pastor of the Central Congregational church, who has recently moved to Atlanta, was present and entertained the group with an interesting talk concerning the activities of the P. E. O. Chapter in Chicago, of which she is a member.

The guest list also included Mrs. J. N. Jordan, of Columbia, S. C.; Miss Sue Ray, of Greensboro, N. C.; Miss Christine Ray, of High Point, N. C.; Miss Ruth Modlin, of Janesville, N. C.; Mrs. L. D. Scott, Mrs. J. L. Sturges and Mrs. Herman Turner, of this city.

For Miss Sprinkle.

Mrs. R. L. Brand Jr., of 1456 Westboro drive, her mother, Mrs. D. H. Vaughan, and sister, Miss Nettie Bell Vaughn, of College Park, entertained at a linen shower at the home of Mrs. Brand, honoring Miss Mildred Louise Sprinkle, of College Park, bride-elect of January.

The hostesses were assisted by Misses Margaret Vaughn and Miriam Ruth Sprinkle. Guests were Mesdames Homer Turner, Reba Nickelson, Sam Johnson, J. J. Foster, F. T. Lower, James Hunt, Vivian Brooks, L. B. Abbey, Lucile Mann, Helen Martin, Rufus Purcell, J. H. Sprinkle and Misses Lena Johnson, Frances and Nell Foster, Dorothy and Charlotte Scott, Elizabeth Ross, Charlotte Robinson, Mary Oliver and Glida Willard.

O. E. S. Meeting.

At a recent meeting of East Atlanta Chapter No. 108, O. E. S., Mrs. Dorothy Morrison was elected worthy matron. Other officers elected were Frank E. Morrison, worthy patron; Miss Ruth Sills, associate matron; W. L. Johnson, associate patron; Mrs. E. B. Gooch, secretary; Mrs. Grace McWilliams, treasurer; Mrs. Cora Blanchard, conductress; and Mrs. Anna Belle McDaniel, associate conductress. The appointive officers are Mrs. W. L. Johnson, chaplain; Mrs. Frances West, marshal; Mrs. Maible Hambrick, Adah; Mrs. Celeste

Jones, Ruth; Mrs. Alice Brisen-dine, Esther; Miss Mildred Carter, Martha; Miss Mildred Herrington, Electa; Mrs. Addie Mae Ivie, warder, and C. F. Dodd, sentinel. The installation will be held on January 14. The chapter has enjoyed one of its most successful years under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Puckett.

Tin 'G' Club Meets.

Christmas Message Issued To King's Daughters, Sons

By Mrs. C. M. TRULOCK, Branch President of King's Daughters and Sons.

It is with sincere joy your new branch president extends greetings to all officers, circle leaders and members of the King's Daughters and Sons of the Georgia branch.

The success of the order in Georgia depends on our love and loyalty, and on the co-operation of each one in this wonderful organization, whose first aim and purpose is development of the spiritual life.

Let us remember that we as children of the King should wear the robe of Unselfishness, a wrap of Tolerance, embroidered with Understanding—golden sandals of Humility on our feet, pearls of Purity around our throat, and the ring of Gladness on our finger.

In these days of wars and terror, sorrow, death, starvation and indescribable fears that clutch at our hearts, may we remember that we need to stand firm for all that will bring about a righteous peace. As our neighbors across the seas call across the vast deeps for help, may we give in every way we can—pray more earnestly than ever before—because we walk in the footsteps of the Great Teacher—Jesus Christ—our Leader.

In a few days we enter a new year, with new opportunities for service. How shall we meet them? Shall we not take up our responsibilities with new energy, new determination that when the end of 1941 comes, we may look back with consciousness of work well done "in His name," a larger membership; a determination to interest more people in our order; a finishing up of our scholarship at Tallulah School—let us complete the perpetual memorial for the Georgia branch.

We are looking forward to coming together in May for our convention, to be held in Augusta. Plan now for a larger attendance.

How many of us know of the various countries that have contributed to our Christmas season? It is said that the fir tree came from the Northland (Germany) and was called "the tree of the Christ Child." Christmas would be strange to us without the "Merry Christmas" greeting. This cheery good wish comes from England.

From the ancient Danes we get the custom of using holly and evergreens for decoration—because they stayed green when all other living things were brown, they seemed to these people of the olden time to be the very spirit of life and love. So we have taken over their customs and make our homes and churches lovely with green at Christmas time. We all like Christmas surprises. The giving of presents started long ago with St. Nicholas, a wealthy bishop of Asia, who wanted to use his money for others, but was so timid that he made all of his gifts in secret when everyone was asleep. The people of Belgium began the custom of having children put wooden shoes by the fireplace for "surprise gifts." Instead of using wooden shoes, we hang up the Christmas stocking. Lovely Christmas candles are the contribution of Sweden, where on Christmas Eve they shine from every window. So, when we celebrate the Christmas season we are borrowing from many lands.

Isn't it appropriate that we should observe the birthday of Jesus by sharing the happy customs of many countries? The an-

Charming Yuletide visitors and their hostesses stole a march on Santa by opening packages on Christmas Eve. Left to right are Miss Frances Stribling, David DuPre and his sister, Miss Bettie DuPre, both of Washington, D. C., and Miss Bunny

Stribling. The visitors are ensconced at the J. W. Stribling residence on West Andrews drive, and are admired guests attending the round of Christmas festivities. On Monday they were honored at a party given by Mrs. Stribling.

gel said on the night of His birth: "Behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all men." Then the heavenly chorus sang, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among all that we owe to these people of other lands who have given us such lovely customs, and think of our King."

J. M. Farmer And Miss Bidez Are Married

Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Bidez announce the marriage of their daughter, Betty Jo, to James Marion Farmer.

Decatur League Holds Meeting

The Decatur Junior Service League met recently at the Candler hotel. Mrs. Elbert Akin, league president, introduced Guy Rutland, who spoke on the work of the Good Neighbor Fund and asked for the assistance and co-operation of the league.

The revue "Rolling Rhythm," recently presented by the league, was such a success financially that it was voted unanimously to sponsor another amateur theatrical in 1941. Mrs. Charles Young, ways and means chairman, thanked the members for their work and co-operation in the production.

Mrs. E. C. Brink, chairman of the Nursery School committee, announced plans for a Christmas party to be given for the children on Friday, December 20. Mrs. Brink requested that league members attend the recreational programs on Monday from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock at the Decatur High school auditorium.

The league is planning extensive Christmas work. Mrs. Lucian Tatum announced that clothes and food would be given to the three families which are regularly supported by the league. Mrs. Dick Buskirk, chairman of the Scottish Rite committee, announced that favors would be given to the hospital children at Christmas. The league voted to aid the Good Neighbor Fund and also voted to buy a bond to assist the Atlanta Tuberculosis Seal Association. It was also voted that the league should join the DeKalb Clinic Auxiliary. Mrs. Louis Estes was appointed representative from the league.

The course for the provisional members was held last month and these members will soon be placed in the league projects in which they are most interested.

Mr. and Mrs. Craven Hold Open House.

An interesting affair of today will be the open house at which Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Craven will entertain at their home at 15 Bishop street. The honor guests for the affair are the hostesses' sons, who are home for the holidays. Lewis Bryant, who is assigned to the U. S. S. Texas, and Richard Bryant, a student at the University of Georgia in Athens.

Mrs. Thelma Jennings, sister of the honor guests, and Miss Nell Rickerson, of Macon, will assist in entertaining.

Miss Miller Weds M. F. Fuller Jr.

PLAINVILLE, Ga., Dec. 24.—The marriage of Miss Charlotte Grace Miller, of Plainville, to M. F. Fuller Jr., of Curryville, was solemnized in the Plainville Methodist church December 22.

Miss Sarah Barna presented music. Miss Miller was becomingly attired in a soldier blue costume suit, trimmed in gray fur with navy blue accessories. She wore a spray of rosebuds.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Coleman Ford. Ushers were Starr Miller, a brother of the bride, of West Georgia College, and Harbin King, cousin of the groom, of the University of Georgia.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Miller and a teacher in the Plainville school. Mr. Fuller is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Fuller Sr., of Curryville. His only brother is Cecil Fuller, of Curryville.

The bride and groom left for a wedding trip.

Neighborhood Party.

Neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Ruth-erford Ellis on West Wesley road assembled at their home recently for an informal cocktail party, the occasion having marked the first anniversary of the hosts' move to the neighborhood.

A profusion of stately pine branches and gleaming red Christmas balls beautified the home.

Miss Hooper Weds Herbert Grogan At Church Rites

The Park Street Methodist church formed the setting yesterday afternoon for the marriage of Miss Margaret Hooper, lovely daughter of Mrs. John Quincy Hooper and the late Mr. Hooper, and Herbert Clay Grogan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Grogan, which was solemnized at 5:30 o'clock. Rev. E. Nash Broyles officiated and a program of music was presented by Mrs. E. E. Aiken, organist, and Sam Magbee, violinist.

The altar of the church was banked with palms and ferns interspersed with gleaming candelabra holding burning white tapers. Completing the decorations were a lighted cross over the choir loft and baskets of red and white flowers in front of the altar.

Ushers were W. J. Pyron Jr. and W. L. Allen Jr. Robert K. Price was groomsmen.

Miss Alice Hooper, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She was gowning in a floor-length model of chartreuse crepe featuring a slight train and leg-of-mutton sleeves. She wore a short matching veil and carried a bouquet of red carnations.

Mrs. W. J. Pyron Jr., another sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a gown designed like that worn by the maid of honor and her flowers were red carnations.

The lovely bride entered with her brother, Harrison G. Hooper, by whom she was given in marriage, and they were met at the altar by the groom and his cousin, A. O. Wigley. She was gowning in white satin designed with a tight-fitting bodice made with high neckline and long sleeves ending in points over her hands. Her finger-tip veil of illusion was caught to her head with a coronet of seed pearls. Her only ornament was a gold locket, belonging to her mother, and she carried a bouquet of calla lilies.

Mrs. Hooper, mother of the bride, was gowning in a model of sea foam crepe with which she wore a shoulder spray of gardenias.

Mrs. Grogan chose for her son's wedding a gown of dusty pink crepe. Her flowers were a shoulder bouquet of talisman roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Grogan left for a wedding trip to New Orleans, after which they will reside in Charlotte, N. C.

MISS HARRIET ANGEL.

Miss Harriet Angel To Wed Mr. Phrydas, of Greensboro

Of interest here and in North Carolina is the announcement made today by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Angel of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Harriet Angel, to Peter Arthur Phrydas, of Greensboro, N. C., son of Mrs. Evelyn Phrydas, also of Greensboro.

A reception honoring the young couple will be given this evening by the bride-elect's parents at their home on St. Charles avenue. Miss Angel is the sister of Miss Georgia Angel and James Angel. She was graduated from Girls' High school and attended the Draughon School of Commerce and the University System of Georgia Evening College.

Mr. Phrydas is the brother of Miss Irene Phrydas. He is attending North Carolina State College, in Raleigh, N. C., and is majoring in electrical engineering.

Meeting Postponed.

The North Side Study Club, Mrs. Josephus Camp, president, has postponed its monthly meeting until Friday, January 3, at 2:30 o'clock at Rich's. For this first meeting of the new year an especially interesting program has been arranged.

Parties Planned For Miss Verdi

Mr. and Mrs. Victor C. Verdi, of Decatur, will be hosts today at an open house and trousseau tea complimenting their daughter, Miss Martha Verdi, whose marriage to Edgar Maslen Guild will be a social event on Saturday afternoon at the First Methodist church in Decatur.

The hosts will be assisted by the bride-elect's attendants. Mrs. Rosa Rogers Guild, mother of the groom-elect, will receive with the hosts and honor guest. Mrs. Robert Wallace and Mrs. William McEuen will preside at the coffee table.

Thursday Miss Katherine Wing will compliment Miss Verdi with a shower and tea at her home in Decatur.

Miss Verdi will be hostess Friday at a luncheon at her home honoring her bridesmaids. She will be assisted by her mother, Mrs. Victor Verdi.

Viking Club Party.

The Viking Club of Atlanta will hold its annual Christmas party next Saturday at the Decatur Woman's Club building at 6:30 o'clock.

This is an interesting annual event enjoyed by the Vikings, their families and friends. Dr. W. W. Anderson, the chairman, announces that the feast will be in the famous smorgasbord style, followed by entertainment and dancing. Morgan Blake will be the guest speaker.

New officers will be officially installed. They are Melvin Olson, president; H. M. Hagin, secretary; H. Freeberg, vice president; Frank Hallin, treasurer, and A. O. Ohl-haver, sergeant-at-arms.

Friends of this interesting organization are invited to participate in the annual celebration.

Sally Forth

SAYS

Dorsey Clan To Foregather To Celebrate Christmas Day

By Sally Forth.

• • • EVERY THIRD YEAR Judge and Mrs. Luther Rosser are hosts at the Christmas party at which the Dorsey clan foregathers to celebrate Christmas Day. Their time rolls around this year and the Dorsey family will assemble around a festive dinner table arranged in the Georgian Terrace apartment of the popular hosts. Just as soon as the guests arrive they will be given strings of different colors, and then the search will begin for gifts tied with shades of ribbon to match their special string.

Shimmering silver cellophane will cover the dinner table to correspond with the motif featured in the decorations. Silvered cotton balls and silvered pine cones will tower above the silver container centering the table. Fastened to the red cellophane packages tied with silver ribbons and containing some amusing present, will be the red ribbons extending from the centerpiece to the plate of each guest.

Red candles in silver candelabra and placecards suggestive of the Christmas season will add an effective note to the decorations. Red bells, tied together with red cellophane bows and ornamented with silver sprays, will hang at the windows of the apartment.

One of the most attractive guests at the party will be little Mary Adair Dorsey, daughter of Laura and Hugh Dorsey Jr., who will attend her second Christmas party. Composing the Dorsey clan are Judge and Mrs. Hugh Dorsey Jr., Mary Adair Dorsey, Jim Dorsey, Mr. and Mrs. Cam Dorsey, Cam Dorsey Jr., Sam Dorsey, Roy Dorsey, Lelaah Sullivan and Judge and Mrs. Rosser.

• • • ERECTED BEFORE a mirror in the living room of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Sciple is a Christmas tree which has quite a history. They bought the tree 48 years ago for their son, Charles M. Sciple, and every Christmas since that time the tree has adorned their living room every Christmas Day.

The tree stands six feet high and was the first one with fold-up branches that was brought to Atlanta. Many of the original ornaments, such as red and silver pipes, silver bugles, red and yellow balls, are decorating the tree today. Others, such as miniature Santa Clauses, silver and wooden bird houses, and crystal ornaments, were bought 25 years ago, and carefully packed away each year by Mrs. Sciple to preserve them for future usage.

• • • LISTED AMONG the affairs assembling members of their family for a Christmas tree party will be that given today by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miller at their home in the Biltmore apartments. One of the trees will be arranged especially for little Sarah McGray Candler, niece of the hosts and daughter of Sarah and Bob Candler.

Miniature red airplanes will adorn the silver tree and a rag doll will be among the appropriate gifts for the baby, who is the namesake of her attractive mother.

Another tree will be decorated for the grown-ups, including Mrs. E. E. McGray, of Kendallville, Ind.; Dr. and Mrs. Robert W. Candler, and the genial hosts.

• • • NO GATHERING of the Gus Dodd family would be complete without the lovely presence of Ruth Dodd Anderson and Mr. Anderson, who have forsaken their New York home this Christmas to spend the holidays with their brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Orme Jr.

Today, in accordance with their annual custom, Mr. and Mrs. Dodd will assemble members of their family for Christmas dinner at their West Peachtree residence. Covers will be placed for Mr. and Mrs. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Orme and the latter's children, Nellie Dodd and Dorothy Dodd Orme. The Yule motif will be charmingly carried out in the table appointments, featuring glowing crimson tapers and a centerpiece of silvered pine cones and iridescent silver balls.

Needless to say, the New York visitors and their hosts will be among the most admired guests attending the Christmas festivities. Mrs. Anderson, whose extraordinary glamour and beauty command attention wherever she goes, has often been a sought-after photographic model, and her legion of Atlanta friends always look forward with eagerness to her infrequent visits here.

With her charming husband she returns to New York next Sunday, but not for long. For ten days later the popular couple will leave for Miami Beach, Fla., where they will be members of a family house party to include Mr. and Mrs. Orme Jr. and Mrs. Dodd and Mr. and Mrs. William C. Satterthwaite. A glorious vacation awaits them at Miami's winter playground, where informal festivities will be interrupted only by surf bathing and strolls in the resort's incomparable sunlight.

Miss Greer Weds William F. Bartee

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Dec. 24.—Miss Eleanor Mae Greer, lovely daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Barnes Greer, of Brunswick, was united in marriage to William Fletcher Bartee, of Atlanta, formerly of Woodbury, Ga. The ceremony was performed at home at 11 o'clock by Rev. J. W. McQueen, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in the presence of the families and close friends of the couple.

Mrs. A. V. Wood played Schubert's "Serenade" on the piano, and Joe Freeman, of Columbus, brother-in-law of the groom, rendered a vocal number.

Miss Ann Wilburn, of Woodbury, was maid of honor, and Mitt Chunn, of Woodbury, was best man.

Of blond type, the bride was beautifully gowned in a costume suit of soldier blue botany wool, fashioned with a hip-length fitted coat trimmed with gray galaynax fur and steel ornaments. Her small hat was of gray felt and galaynax fur trimmed with a quill and her other accessories were in navy blue. Her costume was completed with a shoulder bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley.

Miss Wilburn's gown was of powder blue wool crepe worn with brown hat and other brown accessories and shoulder corsage of talisman roses.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served in the dining room, where the appointments were featured in white and green. Mrs. Frank Stacy poured coffee and Mesdames Owens, W. G. Helms and W. T. Price assisted in serving.

Mr. Bartee and his bride left by motor for a wedding trip and will, after January 1, reside in an apartment at 824 Greenwood avenue, N. E., Atlanta. Mr. Bartee is with the Graybar Electric Company in Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. David Gene McNair are pictured leaving the Winship chapel of the First Presbyterian church following their marriage, which was an event of Monday morning. The bride couple left for a wedding trip to Florida and upon their return they will reside in Atlanta, where they will become popular acquisitions to the young married contingent.

Christmas Dinner.

Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Pattillo, of Decatur, will be hosts Christmas Day at a dinner at their home on East Ponce de Leon avenue. Their guests will include Rev. and Mrs. Ernest Kendal and young son, of LaGrange; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pattillo, of Athens; Gibson Pattillo, Mrs. Albert S. Risley and her guest, Mrs. L. H. Groves, of Cincinnati.

Campbell-Hughes Rites Take Place in Wytheville

WYTHEVILLE, Va., Dec. 24.—The marriage of Miss Mary Austin Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald Campbell, to Charles Brock Hughes, of Atlanta, was solemnized here last Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at St. John's Episcopal church.

Rev. Duval L. Gwaltney and Dr. John Allison performed the impressive ceremony in the presence of a fashionable assemblage of relatives and friends. Graceful arrangements of Ascension lilies, poinsettias and stately palms beautified the church.

Ushers were Craig Moses, of Nashville, Tenn.; Stuart Campbell and Archie Campbell, of Wytheville, Va., and Spencer Waggoner, of Winston-Salem, N. C.

Miss Frances Campbell, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Misses Elizabeth Campbell, of Lexington, Ky.; Mary Wheelchel, of Gainesville, Ga.; Martha Susan Campbell, of Wytheville, Va., and Janet Simpson, of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Misses Susie Stuart Campbell, of Wytheville, and Allison Waggoner, of Atlanta, were junior bridesmaids. All of the attendants wore red velvet gowns made exactly like the bride's gown. Juliet caps and bouquets of white roses completed their effective costumes.

The beautiful bride was given in marriage by her father, with whom she entered the church, and met the groom and his best man, Grant Moses, of Nashville, Tenn., at the altar. She was radiantly lovely in her bridal gown of egg-shell velvet, which was fashioned on princess lines. The close-fitting long sleeves were puffed at the shoulder, and the full skirt was extended into a long train. Her veil of handsome Point-de-Venise lace extended to the end of the train, and she carried an ivory prayer book.

A reception was given by the bride's parents at their home. Afterward Mr. and Mrs. Hughes departed on their wedding trip, at the conclusion of which they will reside in Atlanta.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Laura Stanley Hughes, the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Stanley, and the nephew of T. R. Waggoner, all of Atlanta. He is the son of the late Charles Brock Hughes, of Norfolk, Va.

Miss Julia Chapman and Ray Retterer, of Cleveland, O., Will Marry at Brilliant Ceremony in Late Winter

The Constitution presents today as its Christmas feature lovely Miss Julia Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Meadors Chapman, who has chosen this day of special spiritual significance for the announcement of her betrothal to Ray William Retterer, of Cleveland, Ohio, and Indianapolis, Ind. Plans for the marriage, which will be an event of the late winter, will be announced at a future date.

Miss Chapman is the third daughter of her parents, her mother having been before her marriage Miss Julia Manning, of this city. Her sisters are Mrs. Sydney Williams, and Misses Charlotte and Dorothy Chapman, and her brothers are Edward Chapman Jr. and John Chapman.

One of Atlanta's most striking brunettes, the lovely bride-elect possesses sparkling dark eyes and wavy hair. Her graciousness and charm have made her a social favorite since early high school days, and the announcement of her betrothal today enlists the sincere interest of a wide circle of friends. Miss Chapman graduated from North Fulton High school, where she was a member of Sigma Delta sorority and the Girls' Circle for Tallulah Falls school. She has traveled extensively in foreign countries, having spent a year abroad prior to the war.

Mr. Retterer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Retterer, of Indianapolis, Ind., and is the brother of Robert Donald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Wood, of Macon.

The groom-elect graduated from Shortridge High school in Indianapolis, later receiving a B.S. degree in finance and banking from Indiana University. He is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity, and is associated with the International Business Machine Company with headquarters in Cleveland, Ohio, where the couple will reside after their marriage.

A number of parties honored Miss Norman, among them the eggnog party given recently at Miss Ann Moseley's home on Monroe drive. Mrs. L. A. Moseley assisted her daughter in entertaining and guests included 24 friends of the future bride.

Miss Helen Miller was hostess recently at a luncheon at the Capital City Club's Mirador room in honor of Miss Norman. Christmas decorations were used in the table centerpiece and covers were laid for about 12 friends of the bride-elect.

Misses Mary Carter and Louise McCauley entertained at a luncheon for the bride-elect. Mrs. James T. Burns and her daughter, Mrs. Delos Spring, of St. Petersburg, Fla., were hostesses at a tea at Mrs. Burns' home on Mt. Perrien road.

On Thursday Miss Renee Landgraf and her mother, Mrs. T. H. Landgraf, entertained at a seated tea for Miss Norman at their home on Club drive.

On December 27 Mrs. Vernon Brown gives a luncheon at the Athletic Club as a complimentary gesture to Miss Norman, who will be honor guest at the bridge party given by Mrs. Jud P. Roberts at her Ridgewood road residence.

On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Rembert Sims will honor the bride-elect and Lieutenant Block at a dinner party at their home on Woodward Way.

On December 28 Mr. and Mrs. Harry Norman will honor the bride-elect at a troussau tea at their home on Peachtree road.

Mrs. Arthur McGehee gives a buffet supper for the bridal party at her home in Decatur on Thursday evening.

T. E. L. Group Holds Christmas Service.

Business and Professional Women's Group of Druid Hills Baptist T. E. L. Class met at the church recently for its annual Christmas service. Mrs. Millie Edwards presided.

Mrs. Jesse Latimer, secretary, and Mrs. Louise Wellons, personal service secretary, read their reports and the devotional was given by Mrs. H. M. Tucker, former class president. The activity of this group for the months of November and December is to visit at the DeKalb county almshouse in Decatur.

Accompanied by Mrs. Asa Candler, the group sang Christmas carols. A feature of the evening was a chorus of Intermediate girls of the Sunday school who sang under the direction of Paul Maffett. Mrs. Taylor Smith read a paper and Miss Mary Pritchard, violinist, accompanied by Hope Buie, played and Mrs. J. P. Armstrong read a story.

INSTALLMENT XXI

Uncle had wired a reservation for me on the Limited. As that long afternoon darkened I felt terribly sad about everything and I guess I was crying and trying to hide it by turning my head toward the window on one of those fat little white pillows they give you. Not exactly crying, I don't cry easily, I wish I did; but just what Wyn calls drizzling a bit. Then somebody was speaking to me. It was the same lady.

"But it's my little friend. Something is wrong? You help me, now I help you."

She sat down in my section and I got a whiff of that wonderful faint sweetness-with-a-sting. Everybody knows it now, the Olympia, she named it for that picture we have in the office. Just then it hurt, and for a moment I lost control. I just blubbered.

"You smell like the front porch at home," I said. Of course, I was thinking of that coldcream and brandy loveliness of the old white rambler, and Pop creaking in his rumpsprung wicker chair.

I guess it was one of the silliest things I ever said, and one of the most eventual. She told me afterward it showed I had "educated feelings."

She sat quiet and just looked at me. Even in my Scotch-Irish mist I could see her checking over all my Mode in Paris fresham outfit and my poor little smatch of lipstick, which I'd just started to use.

"You come in my boudoir," she said, "and tell me all about it. Then we will have dinner. I was on my way to the restaurant car."

She had the drawing room at the other end of the same car. It was incredible what she had done to that little place. It smelled like her, it looked like her, and she even had the pouter calling her Madame. She must have paid someone a notorious tip because she had the upper berth made up for Pfu. You could hardly see the ugly green and cocoa-colored settee for pretty negligees and a Vionnet dressing-case.

It's grand when you're on a spot to have somebody take charge. I gaped at her, I guess, but she was quite calm and commanding. She made me sit down, put a towel round my neck and went over me. She took off my hat and brushed my hair, touched me up with some sort of cologne, washed off the lipstick and did it over with her own, and then gave me a drink from a little crystal flask. I can still hear her saying "Tronkee" (that's what it sounded like) when I tried to speak.

"Now sit yourself," she said. "We take dinner in here and we talk. But first regard yourself in the glass."

If I was thinking anything I suppose I had a dumb feeling that is the kind of thing that doesn't happen. But I was still human enough to be wondering what I looked like. I hope I always am. It seemed almost a pity not to be going into the diner where people could see me. The right kind of sachet and fresher and lipstick can do more than theology for most of us.

"Tell me, then," she said. "And we eat some soup. Soup and cosmetics, they cure anything."

I tried to. I told her about the old man, and about Griscom street, and Manitou, and how I had just got steamed up about getting an education and now I would never go through college. As I talked I could see Pfu's paws hanging down over the edge of the berth above, and the Olympia perfume came in waves from Delphine's silk things hanging alongside us over the settee. Pfu whined after a while and at some station, Crestline maybe, we got out and took him for a walk alongside the train. He smelled just the way everything else did.

"Pfu go to bed, you go to bed, we go to bed all three," she said as we got back on the train. I could see the porter admiring the red heels as she stepped up on the yellow footstool. "Don't you worry. Your old man has had the good life and the happy life, he is more lucky than he knows. Remember, there is much education that doesn't happen in colleges. I give you my card, some day you come to see me in New York."

When she talked English some-

SYNOPSIS.
This is the story of Kitty Foyle, the all-American white collar girl. She is telling it to herself, musing as most of us do sometimes, so it is all very confidential. . . . and true. As she looks back over her life, she realizes that she has lived the last ten of it. Lived her lifetime. While all the years before she had been preparing for this last ten. From her Pennsylvania Dutch mother came her stubborn courage, from her Irish father came her humor, her sentiment and her stumblings. Dear old Pop with his whiskey, his rheumatism and his cricket! It was Pop who had really taught her what it was all about and Wyn. . . . and all that love could mean. But now Kitty is in Illinois with her Aunt and Uncle. Her horizons are wider, but somehow the folks are narrower than Pop, even to a small girl just beginning to grow up. However, she and Molly, her pal, are making the best of this painful situation. But now Kitty, after attending school in the mid-west, from the home of her Aunt and Uncle, is back home in Puffy for her vacation. . . . AND NOW KITTY FOYLE TALKING:

how you could feel the French behind it, and because she had to think to say what she wanted, it sounded more important.

That was the way I first met Delphine Detaile. I did want to tell how I felt, but all I could say was "I wish I had done better with Abbe Constantin." That gave her a big laugh.

"Even Abbe Constantin did not know it all," she said. "There is a great deal of living, and if you are worth while you get hurt. There is an American advice, Be yourself."

Mac met me at North Philly and said they thought Pop would pull through. When we got in a taxi he said, "Gosh, kid, if the middle west smells like that, I could take a load of it."

That little flash faded just the way the Olympia faded from my fingers as soon as I got back to Griscom Street. Delphine has something in her formula that keeps it from sticking. She always says a perfume must even-nesce! she makes a cunning little hiss as she says it. "Keety, par-fum is like an emotion; it must know how to say goodbye. You must be able to get rid of same when the mood changes. Can you say that for me in the language of advertising, not more than ten words, please."

The minute I saw dear old Pop everything else went out of my mind. He was pretty sick. Some kind of bloodclot had been traveling round his system and landed in his speech center. "I can't make out what he wants to say," Mac warned me. "Something about an owl. Crazy stuff. He mumbles so I can't get it."

Pop opened his eyes and looked at me like he was crazy. He was in the big brass bed in the front bedroom, the one we all came out of. In forty years he had worn a hollow in one side of it. It wasn't any use to try to move him over; he'd roll back.

"Owl," he whispered. "Wise old owl."

I knew right away what he was thinking. I was near bawling, but I managed to grin and say it:

"A wise old owl sat on an oak, And the more he saw the less he spoke."

I put this into his hairy ear and it hurt me that his beard smelt of medicine instead of whisky. He nodded and his eyes brightened. "That's right. Wise old owl, sat on oak. Good girl, Kitty. Kitty wise old owl."

That was a rhyme he used to quote to me when I was a kid. "Fine for you," said Mac when we went downstairs. "Gee, I thought I'd go nuts trying to figure what he wanted."

"I never should have gone away. It was selfish of me."

"Don't be silly, kid. The old man wanted you to go. Besides I think he got off easier than we thought at first. Maybe that ain't a real bloodclot, I have a hunch it's a partly a boozeclot. The old bum went out on a toot a few days ago, he got into an uproar with some of the boys at the gym, arguing about Al Smith and Hoover."

"You go home and look after Martha," I said. They were expecting a baby. "This is my job."

Maybe I really was good medicine for Pop, the way Dr. Bartrum said. After a few days we were able to let the nurse go. We had to, she annoyed the old man because she was so homely and as his speech cleared I was scared she'd hear him crabbing because she was fat. Dr. Bartrum said it was remarkable what a comeback he was making; but remember, he added, at 67 you don't come back all the way. Don't let him get excited; keep him in bed as much as you can. If he wants to get down stairs after lunch it's all right.

We soon got into routine. Myrtle was wonderful, Pop minded her better than anyone else. Getting him downstairs was a problem; if it wasn't done just right he got jitters. Myrtle used to take him sort of pickback on her broad shoulders. "Honeychile, you don't spend all these years at de wash-tubs widout gettin' hefty."

He liked to sit in the kitchen so we put the old wicker chair in the corner where he could see out the little window and watch what Myrtle took out of the ice-chest. He'd stay there for hours while Myrtle went on working, talking or crooning to herself. Once and a while his eye would study the pantry cupboard where the whiskey bottle used to be. "Mister, you don't need to speculate dat closet any mo'. Ain' nothin' there but groceries, ain' no Pope's telephone."

Maybe sick people would all live longer if they sat in kitchens. There's something alive about a kitchen, the way it smells and sounds and feels. Afternoons I was in my bedroom upstairs working on the typewriter, I'd hear Myrtle mulling away and once and a while Pop answer back. "No, suh, cullud folks don't drink the way white folks does. Dey don't need to drink dat way, cullud people's heart ain't sunk so far down. Don't need to fish fo' it wid whiskey." Pop says something I don't hear, and Myrtle cracks right back: "Don't talk to me 'bout Repeal. You been repealing it yo'self fo' ten years. Dat's what put you where yo' is now. No, don't you holler fer Miss Kitty, let dat honchile get on wid her wuk. Mister, don't you black-woman me, ole black woman takin' good care of you."

Mornings, while he was still asleep, I hurried to the Maggie street station and took the L downtown to business school. I got in three hours classwork before noon, then called up to see if everything was all right. Myrtle always had things under control. There was a little gang of us from the school had a drugstore lunch together on Market street. Every way of life seems to have its own drink; our shorthand squad specialized on black and white sodas. We were all pretty serious about it, also pretty damn discouraged by the time we got to Dip-thongs and Disjoined Suffices. That's when you find yourself dreaming shorthand and wake up figuring out the symbol for Indianapolis or San Francisco. Or maybe you fell into a doze in class and trying to catch up you take a page of dictation on top of what you wrote already. Then you're dished. But about then some of the boys were writing out corny limericks in symbols to see if we could read them back, maybe that was a help.

Being in the half time crowd, after lunch I did a little shopping and got home about the time Pop came downstairs. If the weather was good we helped him out in the yard. Sometimes from the winnow upstairs I practised taking down his and Myrtle's conversation, to work up speed. But Myrtle got wise to this. "But Kitty, don't you smirch yo' notebook wid dat dirty ole talk. He say the damndest things, he think 'em up just to tease me."

What every Soldier and his Family should Know.

by CAPT. GENE MORGAN.

"Are drafted privates allowed to drink? Any liquor allowed in camp? What penalties if not?"

The sale of liquor, whisky, gin, etc. is prohibited in Army post and unit exchanges (stores). It is a punishable offense to introduce intoxicating liquor into a command, quarters, station or camp, either for sale or in other cases.

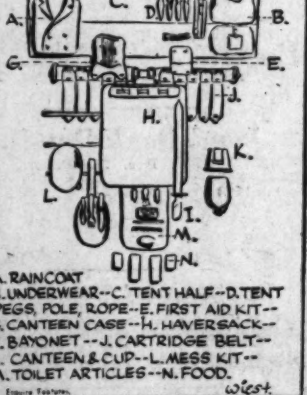

Taverns and other places outside the military reservation where liquor is sold may be designated as "off limits" by the commanding officer, and patronage of these places is prohibited to enlisted men. Where patronage is prohibited, strict regulations as to hours when enlisted men may enter such places are promulgated. Such rules are enforced by the military police in co-operation with local civilian authorities.

Drunkenness at any time or place under such circumstances as to bring discredit upon the military service is a court-martial offense.

The Articles of War for punishments ranging from forfeiture of pay to confinement at hard labor, or both, for being found drunk while in the performance of mili-

ALLEN—Do you think all the stuffing on Christmas is going to be in stockings, turkeys and kids' tummies? That's where Fred Allen gives his "Star Theater" fans something different over WGST at 8 o'clock tonight. Fred, with his usual flair for springing the unexpected, is presenting as his guest for a Christmas coast-to-coast audience—Otto Hottendorf, bologna stuffer.

But it's no bologna actually or metaphorically to say that tenor star, Kenny Baker, Portland, Hoffa, Al Goodman's Orchestra and Hugh Martin Singers are to join the mighty Allen. Al Players in providing a typical Fred Allen host of holiday hollers and howls—with a dash of melody—for Christmas.

COMEDY—Margaret Hamilton, the witch in the "Wizard of Oz," will turn designing dowager to cast a spell on Harry von Zell when Eddie Cantor presents the "Drug Store Follies of 1941" on "Time to Smile" over WSB at 8 o'clock tonight.

In this, the comic's first broadcast of the series from Hollywood, Eddie will stage his show in the manner of his former friend and employer, the late Flo Ziegfeld. Von Zell, "Mr. Guffy" and Bobby Sherwood will assist the boss in producing a show in the Follies tradition.

BIG TOWN—A powerfully emotional story by Adela Rogers St. Johns will be presented by "Big Town," starring Edward G. Robinson, over WGST at 7 o'clock tonight. It is entitled "Ticking of Eternity."

The story explores the emotional battle between a man who is determined to gain financial security at all cost, and his wife who is ready to make any sacrifice in order to have a baby. What ensues makes intense drama. Ona Munson will play opposite Star Robinson. The musical background will be provided by Leith Stevens and his orchestra.

STORY—Chester Lauke and Norris Goff, radio's famous "Lum and Abner" join the Christmas Caravan to present again their rural paraphrase of the story of the birth of Christ in a special Christmas night broadcast from Hollywood over WGST at 9:15 o'clock tonight.

The story, first told by "Lum and Abner" on Christmas night in 1933, is that of an unemployed Arkansas carpenter and his wife who came on Christmas Day to the county seat of Pine Ridge. They went to a nearby barn to spend the night and there a wife was born to the carpenter's wife, "Lum and Abner" and "Grandpap," another lovable Pine Ridge character, go to the barn with blankets and food for the carpenter and his family.

CANTATA—The beautiful Christmas cantata, "Song of the Highest," written by Helen Fairchild, and sung by a Minex choir, will be presented over WAGA at 9 o'clock this morning.

Merrie Xmas

The Season when children go to bed early and grown-ups go to parties... when Santa Claus comes down the chimney and a lot of money goes up in smoke... when father trims the tree and the whole family trims father. But it's a happy time and we want to add our greetings and best wishes for your happiness and prosperity during 1941.
